Mr. Smith has built a life-size manger scene on the floor of the large stone barn on the farm. When the large doors are opened at night, the scene is illuminated by spotlights.

Here And There

News Collected At Random

We met a little blue eyed, blond tacker the other afternoon on Chambersburg street. We had never seen the youngster before but his beaming face and flashing eyes fascinated us. He was about six years old. As we approached each other the following rapid-fire conversation took place:

"Hi, There," the little fellow said, his eyes dancing.

"Well, Hi to you, Champ. How are you?"

"Oh, I'm fine, thank you sir," he said.

And as he passed, he added: "And a Merry Christmas to you, Sir."

"Well, thank you very much, and a very Merry Christmas to you, Champ."

"Oh, thank you, thank you very much sir," he beamed as he continued on his way.

We may never see him again but we'll never forget him.

Monday Was Biggest Day At Postoffice

Gettysburg postal workers today looked forward to Saturday night with intense longing.

Saturday evening will mark the end of the Christmas rush which has kept the 11 mail deliverers and the three clerks on duty at the postoffice constantly busy for the past several weeks.

Monday was the worst day of the whole period, Postmaster Lawrence E. Oyler said today. The clerks and carriers worked to 10 o'clock Monday night in order to take care of the large volume of mail.

Deliveries during the holiday season have been stepped up to take care of all the incoming mail. The carriers have made trip after trip to various sections of the town, depending upon the volume of mail, making one trip after another until all of the mail has been delivered.

Chinese Reds Are Massing For Another Huge Assault; Rocket Ships Are Laying Fiery Shield On Beachhead

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP)—Rising Red attacks on the northeast Korea approaches to Seoul prompted a warning by General MacArthur today that another big Communist offensive may be on the way.

Initial assaults in regimental strength rolled back Republic of Korea (ROK) forces nearly two miles northeast of Chunchon. That's a highway junction 45 miles northeast of the Republic capital.

A large buildup of Reds—Chinese or North Korean or both—was reported north of Chunchon. West of this area along Parallel 38, a sizable Chinese force was spotted in Yonchon, 38 miles due north of Seoul and six miles north of the parallel.

Heavy Traffic In Enemy Lines

Yonchon is on one of two main rail lines leading to the South Korean capital. The other runs northwest of Seoul to Pyongyang, Korean Red capital.

Noting unmistakably heavy traffic behind enemy lines and continued probing thrusts, MacArthur observed:

In northeast Korea, American rapid-fire rocket ships moved close inshore at Hungnam Thursday and joined other warships, planes and field artillery in laying a fiery shield from close range around the beachhead.

Use of the rocket ships in defense of the Hungnam perimeter for the first time indicated that the Reds are closing in.

The flat trajectory and comparatively short range of the rocket ships indicated the Reds were being held at bay closer to the beachhead.

Used At Inchon

No description of the vessels was given, but rocket-firing craft were used to support the Allied landings at Inchon on the west coast in September. They were used also late in World War II.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton reported small but persistent Red efforts to penetrate the northern flank of the perimeter were beaten off by American doughboys early Friday. Intense Allied firepower still thwarted Red attempts to build up sizable assault forces.

Chinese appeared to have been replaced by North Koreans in the Hungnam sector.

MacArthur's late Friday war summary said it was possible that the Chinese had moved southwest across the peninsula and into action near the 38th parallel above Seoul.

Probe Allied Linse

The summary said the use of pack horses and camels northeast of Chunchon "suggests that the attackers were Chinese forces."

Thus far, however, no Chinese troops have been reported identified positively south of Parallel 38.

MacArthur's summary said enemy units in the Inchon-Kumhwa-Hwachon and Yonchon area, almost in the dead center of the peninsula, have been probing United Nations lines there for eight days. Most thrusts have been aimed at feeling out the U.N. strength astride the three main arteries leading south to tense Seoul.

The general said signs of an offensive were seen in the increasing activity in the vicinity of Hwachon, north of Chunchon, and the positions of enemy forces totaling possibly three corps as a forward echelon. That is a potential of 10 to 12 divisions, perhaps 80,000 to 100,000 men.

China Balks Cease-fire

Tokyo, Dec. 22 (AP)—Red China rejected today the United Nations' repeated appeals to negotiate for a cease-fire in Korea.

It could mean war to the bitter end unless other means for peace can be found.

It spurned the proposal of a special U. N. Assembly committee as rising Red attacks in western Korea prompted a warning by General MacArthur that a big new Chinese military offensive may be on the way.

There is still time to enter the Christmas decorating contest, sponsored by the Littlestown Junior Chamber of Commerce, declared Donald Z. Mann, chairman of the contest committee. Entry blanks, however, will have to be postmarked not later than Saturday. If prospective entrants do not have blanks they can be secured at either of the local banks.

Many more people are decorating their homes this year than in previous years. The principal purpose of the contest is to stimulate the Christmas spirit and increase the enthusiasm of the holiday season by the use of outside decorations and lights. Many, however, have not yet entered the contest. Everyone who does any decorating at all should enter, said Mr. Mann. The judging will not take place until Wednesday, December 27, to make certain that all decorations will be left intact, rather than taking them down the day after Christmas. The judges will be George P. Smith, president of the Littlestown Rotary club, Attorney Edward B. Bulleit, Gettysburg, and Grover C. Gouker, Jr., president of the Hanover Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The posters are now on display in various windows of business establishments.

The Warriors played a deliberate ame throughout and controlled the all off the backboards about 80 per ent of the time. All of the locals layed particularly fine ball with arl Saunders, Jim Skinner and avey Swope proving highly effiient under the hoops. If the squad an continue to show the improveient it did against the Bearcats iere is little doubt a successful ampaign will result.

Continuing their slow deliberate lay in the second period, Gettysurg landed but five points on a air of field goals by Saunders and a harity heave by Skinner. Brown ooped two goals and a foul and Rohrbaugh a goal to deadlock the core at 14-14 at the half.

The defending District 3 PIAA hamps poured 20 points through he meshes in the third frame when rown unleashed three of his faorite one-handed stabs while Scheivert and Martin each contribted a pair of twin-pointers. The ocals' five points resulted on goals y Skinner and Ford and a foul by Saunders.

Reserves from both benches played considerable portion of the final rame and there was little to choose etween them.

Jayvees Bow

Held to but four points in the first alf, two of which came on a goal y Dayhoff in the second period, the Warrior reserves dropped the preliminary game 35-25 for their second loss against two wins.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP) — Frank Frish and Fresco Thompson, a couple of guys who hate to lose ball games, were exchanging barbed pleasantries before the first showing of the 1950 World Series movie and somehow the conversation got around to another hard loser, Burleigh Grimes. . . . "I'll never forget the feud I had with him," chuckled Thompson. . . . "I had just joined the Phillies and my first time at bat against him I got around to third base. . . . I watched him come up with that spitball (Fresco demonstrated vividly) and decided he couldn't see me if I tried to steal home. . . . So the next time I went for home and he threw me out by about 30 feet. . . . I cut across toward position at second base and as I passed Grimes he growled at me: 'Where do you think you are, in that bush league up at Buffalo?' . . . So I said: 'When I saw you out there I felt right at home.' . . . Well, I spent the rest of the season dusting off by pants every time he pitched against us. . . . The next spring Grimes was with another club and I felt as if I'd been around and didn't think he'd bother me. . . . His first pitch to me was a couple of feet high—but inside. . . . I just laughed at him and hit the next pitch. . . . Well, my next time up he knocked me down with the first pitch and he kept on knocking me down all season just for laughing at him."

SPORTSMENTION

Bill Connelly, Villanova athletic director, claims that sophomore Larry Hennessey is more than filling Paul Arizin's shoes. . . . but, Bill adds rather sadly, the team might suffer from sophomoritis—"it could beat the best team in the country, but it also could lose to worst."

TIME'S A-WASTING

A South Carolina observer, who recently reported the U. of Miami had "a pretty good team that might give Clemson trouble" in the Orange Bowl, probably never had heard Jimmy Burns' report from the Miami dressing room after the victory over Florida. . . . Coach Andy Gustafson reminded his players he had told them there were two big games they had to win—Pitt and Florida. . . . Then he added: "You did a great job. There will be no practice Sunday." . . . As the athletes let out a cheer, Andy had an afterthought. . . . "We've got a homecoming game against Iowa next week," he shouted. "Start thinking about it—not right now but by the time you go to church Sunday."

CONNIE MACK, 88 TODAY, IS JUST FAN NOW

Philadelphia, Dec. 22 (AP)—"I'm just a fan now," said Connie Mack today as he celebrated his 88th birthday.

This is the first birthday in 67 years that the grand old man of baseball has observed as a spectator. He retired as manager of his beloved Philadelphia Athletics last October 18. He managed the A's for 50 seasons and had been active as player and manager for 67 campaigns.

How is he taking retirement?

"I'm so busy that I don't have time to even realize I'm retired," Mack told the usual crowd of press and radio men who visited him in his Shibe Park tower office.

Mail for Connie still pours into the office from over all the world. And he replies to every letter. It keeps him going five days a week. The routine Mack has followed ever since he took over the Athletics in 1901 hasn't varied any. Every morning at 10—sometimes earlier—the ever straight-backed dean of baseball men can be seen in his office chair. He generally works until about 1 p.m. and then goes home.

Speaking in customary manner—each phrase punctuated with a New England drawled "ah"—Mack discussed the problems of baseball.

"Of course," he said, "the welfare of the nation must come first and baseball must be prepared to do whatever it can to help.

The man who managed Milwukee during the Spanish-American war and guided his A's through two world wars said he had "no doubt that baseball will survive this latest emergency."

He paused briefly, then said slowly:

Lauds Chandler

"I was shocked at the failure of the major league owners to renew the contract of Commissioner (A. B.) Chandler. I still do not understand it. After all, Chandler did everything that was expected of him—and did it well.

"What more do they want? Why the commissioner arranged for payment of more than $800,000 for World Series television, didn't he? That alone should have been enough to keep him in office. I'm afraid the owners have made a terrible mistake."

Mack, expressing deep concern, suggested baseball might "in these time, be unable to get the exact type of man the game needs to replace Chandler.

"Personally, I believe some of the seven that voted against him were carried along by the influence of others. When they've had time to reconsider what they have done, I think they'll change their minds.

"I believe that when the final decision comes, they'll keep Chandler in office."

Connie said he approved other decisions reached by the baseball magnates in Florida—repeal of the bonus rule and abolishment of the agreement not to take players out of high school.

Then, worried lest Club Manager Arthur Ehlers and Manager Jimmy Dykes might thing he was stepping out of line, he said:

"Now, I'm just speaking as a fan. I'm not speaking for the Athletics."

And after gazing from one to another of his audience, his eyes—aglint with humor—"gosh I hope everybody realizes I'm just a fan now.

"Naturally I intend to go south with the boys and I'll travel with them but I'll watch from the stands.

"Dykes told me he didn't believe I'd be able to watch the team every day and be able to keep my mouth shut. Well, he'll be surprised. I intend to prove him wrong."

AL WEST DIES AS RESULT OF BOUT INJURY

By TED MEIER

Her Daddy, Al (Sonny Boy) West, died last night in St. Clare's hospital, some 22 hours after he had been knocked out by Percy Bassett of Philadelphia, in a boxing bout at St. Nicholas arena.

The 21-year-old West, a negro lightweight from Washington, D. C., underwent two delicate brain operations and received three blood transfusions, but failed to regain consciousness and died at 7:59 p.m. He had been kept alive for several hours by artificial respiration.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, state Athletic Commission physician, said West died of an intra-cerebral hemorrhage and a cerebral concussion. When he was knocked out West fell flat on his back and his head hit the canvas with a thud.

He did not respond to Nardiello's treatment and was carried from the ring on a stretcher and rushed to the hospital. He rallied after the first operation, but suffered a relapse and a second operation was ordered in the afternoon. Thereafter he was reported "sinking fast" and was not moved from the operating room.

Only a few hours before he entered the ring Trainer Johnny Sullivan said West had talked of the Christmas gifts he had in mind to buy his family with his purse money, estimated at $1,000. He had his heart set on the toy piano for little Sharon who was sent to bed in the West Washington home last night without being told of her daddy's death.

The death was the third boxing fatality in the United States and the ninth in the world this year compared to 18 in 1949.

There will be an autopsy after which funeral services will be held in Washington.

CANNERS DRUB QUINCY 52-18

Biglerville high school breezed to its third basketball victory in six starts Thursday evening by crushing Quincy 52-18 on the Canner court.

After piling up an 18-7 margin in the first period, the Canners had easy sailing against their outclassed opponents. Rice connected for nine goals to spearhead the attack.

The Biglerville jayvees also won an easy 39-18 decision in the preliminary game.

Next Friday the Biglerville boys and girls will tangle with the Alumni.

THE CLEAN UP MEN

We all take our place in the world according to our choosing or allocation. What we do is sometimes noted and appreciated. All too often it is merely taken for granted. I for one, have great admiration for those faithful and hard working crews who do so many of the clean up jobs, performing them as a daily routine, but heroically giving themselves to their tasks whenever an emergency arrives.

After the recent storm in which trees were uprooted, wires scattered and broken, here in the east, and in other parts of the country when floods ran wild, there were the clean up men, repairing and working to bring back to normal. I saw men, even at the height of the storm, doing what they could to lessen danger and to bring relief to many.

Even during normal times there are the clean up men in a city, to keep the streets clean, the garbage gathered, the snow removed, and dozens of other chores to be done in the repairing of streets, sewers, communication lines, and water pipes. All honest work is important, no matter how or where performed.

Then there are the janitors, window cleaners and floor scrubbers in our great city buildings, and gardeners, who take so much pride in producing clean yards and beautifying them. How greatly we are indebted to them all! Each one of us has a responsibility in seeing that we do not clutter up our streets or highways, for that only makes the work of these clean up men more difficult and costly. Our parks and streets belong to us. We wouldn't deliberately throw waste material over the floor of our own home.

We feel better when we are neat and clean in person, and we take added pride in the town or city where we live, when it is kept clean and free from all rubbage. There are clean up jobs for us all and we should accept them as routine. Example goes a long way. Much of our politics could be highly bettered through the means of soap, a stiff brush and a mop—to give it a substantial cleaning!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Latent Resources"

THE DOUBTER

The shepherds heard the news
The angels brought that eve.
God left them free to choose,
To doubt or to believe.

Of what they'd heard and seen
They talked, as now we know,
And one there must have been
Whose choice was not to go.

Great faith they must have had
Who went to see at morn
In swaddling raiments clad
An infant, stable born.

This oft I ponder on:
Had I been one of them,
If with them I had gone
That night to Bethlehem.

Chapter 17

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL

Dasher, the reindeer, flew into the sky. The stars were so close and so bright Bucky felt he could reach out and grab a handful. He had just decided to try it when suddenly Dasher dropped from the sky and landed in Santa Land.

How the fairy folk sang and shouted to see Dasher back again! Santa and Mrs. Claus came running for their cottage. Mrs. Claus was crying she was so happy. Santa couldn't say anything at all. He just stood there looking jollier and jollier and as if he were going to burst with pride and pleasure.

When Bucky slid down from Dasher's back there was Lonesome Boy sitting there for everyone to see.

"Not Jindians again!" cried Tweedleknees.

Bucky said, "Lonesome Boy is my friend. He is an Indian now."

Lonesome Boy smiled. It was the first time anyone had seen him smile and it was a wonderful thing to see.

"Me not Lonesome Boy anymore," he said. "Me Happy Boy. Me have friend."

Santa laughed—oh, such a gay and jolly laugh.

"Come, Happy Boy! Pick your Christmas present! Anything you want is yours. But hurry, for it is Christmas Eve and in a very few minutes I must be on my way."

Even at that moment the dwarfs were pulling out Santa's sleigh and hitching up the reindeer with Dasher himself leading the rest. The elves dumped sack after sack of toys into the bottom of the big red sleigh and still went back for more.

Lonesome Boy—who was Happy Boy now — took Santa's hand. "Please," he said. "I no want present. But if you bring presents to Indian tribe they no hate you anymore."

Santa looked startled. Then he pounded his hands together. "So that's it!" he cried. "They only wanted some Christmas for themselves all the time!"

Santa rushed away and didn't come back until Tweedleknees roared it was time for him to go. Then Santa came. He carried on his back a special pack and over one shoulder he carried an enormous fir tree already decorated with gold and tinsel and red and blue balls.

Santa climbed in the sleigh. "Come, Bucky," he said. "I'll take you home tonight. And Happy Boy, too." So the two boys climbed in the sleigh and away they flew.

I don't know exactly what those Jindians thought when they saw Santa come riding down into their midst. But I do know they were too astonished to move—not even when they saw Bucky and the Jindian boy in the sleigh.

"Merry Christmas!" cried Santa. He leaped from the sleigh and set up his great Christmas tree. Then he dumped out his very special bag that he carried over his back and every Jindian's eyes popped to see the presents there: Tiddley winks and bob jacks and bead necklaces and marbles and bubble gum and humming tops and crayons and shells and all the bright shiny trinkets that children and Jindians love.

For a long moment no one said a word. Then the Jindians mumbled excitedly together. Finally Chief Hurricane walked over to Santa. He had a pipe in his hand and he offered the pipe to Santa.

"Smoke peace pipe," he said. He grinned—a funny kind of grin because he wasn't used to smiling, you know.

Santa leaned over and took a big puff on the pipe and passed it back to Chief Hurricane. Anybody could see that Santa thought this was the most fun he'd had for many and many a Christmas Eve.

Happy Boy went to Chief Hurricane and said, "Me go home with little cowboy." Chief Hurricane just nodded yes. He was anxious to start playing around in that pile of toys from Santa's sack.

Bucky put his arm around Happy Boy. He thought, "Well, I really did get my wish! I'm going to have a real live Indian to play with for Christmas!

He wondered what his mother and father would say to that. He guessed they'd be so glad to have him home they'd be glad to have Happy Boy there, too.

"Off we go, now!" cried Santa. He and Bucky and Happy Boy got into the sleigh and off they started.

"Christmas make merry to you!" shouted the Jindians — stumbling over the strange new words.

Santa leaned from his sleigh and called gaily back: "And a Merry Christmas to all!"

THE END

Chief Hurricane walked over to Santa. "Smoke peace pipe," he said···He grinned a funny kind of a grin because he wasn't used to smiling.

If you're wondering how milk and cream compare in food value: Milk has more protein, minerals and water-soluble vitamins than cream; but cream has more butter fat than milk, and therefore more vitamin A.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

It is hard to understand why we must live in a world that is so full of trouble, tragedy and sadness when we, in America, could and would enjoy this beautiful land with all of the good things we have in this country.

But even the darkest clouds look a little brighter during the Christmas Season. The beautiful Christmas story brings cheer and happiness to even the darkest corner.

So we are glad again to be able to say to our friends and neighbors

A HAPPY NEW YEAR

THE C. H. MUSSELMAN COMPANY

BIGLERVILLE, PA. GARDNERS, PA. INWOOD, W. VA.

Ring Out JOYOUS YULE

To Our Friends:

Christmas is one of those rare occasions when our thoughts turn from the more material things of life to the nobler, more beautiful ones.

. . . to our loved ones and our personal friends,
. . . to our business friends and associates,
. . . to the happiness we can bestow rather than that which is bestowed upon us.

We realize that were it not for the good will and friendly feeling of folks like you, we would not have been privileged to enjoy many of the pleasures that have been ours this year.

As an expression of our genuine appreciation of your good will, we extend our most sincere good wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely,

E. DONALD SCOTT

Sunday School Lesson

THE SAVIOUR IS BORN

Luke 2:1-20; Philippians 4:4-7

Memory selection: Be not afraid; for behold, I bring you good news of a great joy which will come to all the people.—Luke 2:10-11

What the prophets had predicted had now come to pass. In the little town of Bethlehem was born the Prince of Peace. The circumstances were humble but the significance of that birth for mankind was great. The story, often called the sweetest story ever told, is well known but will be repeated again and again as the years come and go. We are especially interested in the meaning of it, and how its blessings may be appropriated.

The central meaning of this great event is that God decided to have a personal representation among Earth's people. So he commissioned his Son. Other means had not proved to be adequate. The prophets and lawgivers and others had done their part. In some instances they had done it very well. Like in the well-known parable all these messengers had been ignored or slain. Now the Son was sent. What treatment would be given to Him and his message of love and good-will? The history of Christianity tells the story. It is not a very satisfactory story. The peace and glid-will which Jesus came to establish does not reign either in the individual lives or among the nations.

The manner in which we observe the recurring Christmas season tells us several things. One is that the genuine spirit of the Nativity does not prevail. Jesus brought a message of hope and assurance to every individual that will receive Him. Each Christmas should make more precious that message and deepen and strengthen the personal life. As it is we are all caught up in the hurried swirl of business and other activities that are not conducive to the spirituality that should be the dominant factor of the Season. We do not easily hold to the real purpose of observing Christmas. We seem to have brought into the occasion too many elements that are not essential at all. Commercialism for one. Frivolity to mention another. Even the fine carols have been sung on all sorts of occasions and in all kinds of places until they become a part of the secular and the ordinary. The writer recently attended a fine symphony concert. As an encore a medley was played in which Christmas carols were included. As "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" and "Silent Night, Holy Night" were heard a spiritual mood settled over the appreciative audience. But it was quickly dispelled by a rousing finale of "Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells."

To All People

The message which rang out on the night air and was heard by the shepherds was "to all people." It is well to note that in former times and other occasions the Lord spoke

"Glory to God in the highest!" Thus sang an angelic host to a group of shepherds who watched their flocks by night on a hillside near Bethlehem.

"Glory to God in the highest!" was the joyous refrain that heralded the birth of the Savior. The shepherds knew the story of the promised Messiah and hastened, dumb-stricken, to worship Him.

"Glory to God in the highest!" The music of the magic chant swept through the hills and dales of Judea, entered every home and shop, and flowed upward and onward until it mingled with the music of the spheres.

"Glory to God in the highest!" has come ringing down the ages, as men have struggled against the adverse forces of the world, have groaned under oppression, and finally have seen the light of God's hope shine again.

"Glory to God in the highest!" is the joyous proclamation the world awaits this Christmas. There is no human way out of the present ills. But He is the way, the truth and the life. Glory to God! The Savior is born!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a ehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

USES LIFE SIZE

life-size figures of the three wise men and their camels. These are also lighted by spotlights. At night when the doors are opened and the lights turned on it makes a striking and beautiful scene.

Mr. Smith made all of the figures from plywood and tin. Those inside the barn are of plywood. The wise men and the camels, standing outside the barn, are made of tin.

Mary, Joseph and the Infant are shown in the manger scene, with the shepherds standing by it, one of them kneeling. Mr. Smith did all the work in the cellar of his home, using only a hand coping saw and a pair of tin snips. He is employed at the Gettysburg furniture factory. He began making the set when he was 18. It was displayed for the first time last year. New figures were added this year.

Mr. Smith has his display where the public can readily see it. "The hard work of making the display is not important if I can share some of the Christmas spirit with others," he said.

Mr. Smith also made a nativity scene for Merle Shaffer, 401 York street, which is set up on the porch of the Shaffer home.

XMAS SERVICES

masses children of the Sunday school will present a Christmas program in the parish hall.

Confessions will be heard from 4 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and from 7 to 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

Play Xmas Carols

Beginning at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night and continuing until midnight a program of Christmas carols will be amplified from the rectory.

From 11:30 Sunday night until midnight the choir of the church, under the direction of Mrs. Virgin Hall, will present a program of carols in the church.

At midnight a solemn high mass will be offered. The music will be sung by the church choir under Mrs. Hall's direction.

The celebrant of the midnight mass will be the Rev. Fr. Yeager. The Rev. Fr. Joseph Frinerty, S.J., will be deacon and the Rev. Fr. John Tyre will be sub-deacon. Both are from Woodstock college and seminary, Woodstock, Md., and are spending the week-end with Father Yeager at Buchanan Valley.

Grounds Are Decorated

Both the interior of St. Ignatius church and the grounds surrounding it have been decorated for the solemn occasion. Featured among the Christmas decorations are two large cribs. One is placed in the church and the other is located on the grounds outside directly in front of the grotto.

During the midnight mass the Rev. Fr. Yeager will impart the papal blessing, which was obtained by Bishop George L. Leech from Pope Pius XII, during the recent visit of the bishop to the Vatican.

Sunday School Lesson

by the prophets, or through a priest or judge or king. Here the message from the Lord is broadcast by many voices and first heard by plain men. There is significance in this. Shepherds were considered ordinary people—rough men at a rugged task. Such as these, were the first callers at the unattractive stable. It indicated no doubt that the Son, lowly born, was a Saviour of the lowly of whom the earth holds so many. Then He came to all men, all sorts and conditions of men. No distinction of race or class is found in what the angels announced. And, it may be added, this message from the heavens and by air first came to men at their work.

In the "good news" broadcast that holy night are the elements of salvation from personal and social sins. For the darkness that over-hung that age is present still, and was caused by the waywardness of man. A Saviour was born. That should be hailed with joy by even the most guilty. Then there are whole nations to whom the Christmas message has not been brought. To them must be told the story of the Nativity and its meaning. The spiritual must come first; but the poor, the hungry, the weak need to hear it from those who can help them in a practical way to a more abundant life. God came in the person of his Son that all men and the whole of life might be saved from sin and from suffering. Each Christmas should give us new inspiration to give its message reality. In the measure that we do this will peace and good-will prevail in the heart and among the nations.

Questions on the S. S. Lesson

1. Who predicted the Nativity?
2. Who is Jesus?
3. What is His message?
4. What can Christians do?
5. Of what should man be relieved?

Answers

1. The prophets.
2. God's Son as messenger.
3. Joy, peace, goodwill.
4. Enjoy and spread the "good news."
5. Of sin and want.

NATIVITY CAST

Brothers, organist, have been rehearsing, and have prepared an inspiring program of music. The assistant minister, Morgan S. Haney, will conduct the worship service.

The Loyal Sons and Daughters church school class of Zwingli church held their regular monthly meeting in the church school hall on Tuesday evening in the form of a family Christmas party with a covered dish social following. Leister, exhibited two film strips entitled "Holy Child of Bethlehem" with carol singing by the group included, and "Christopher Mouse," a children's Christmas story.

An election of officers was conducted with the following results: president, Sherman Krall; vice president, Charles Fahs; secretary, Julia Glatfelter; assistant secretary, Miriam Fahs; treasurer, Paul Fahs; assistant treasurer, Nellie Lease.

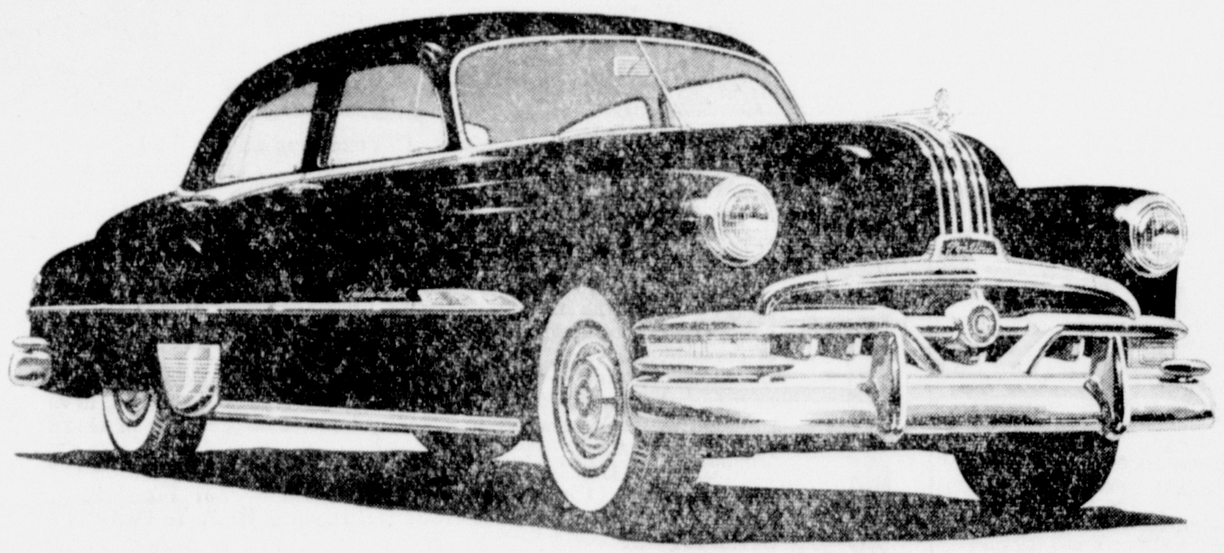
Come in and see the New Silver Anniversary Pontiac



Double Proof that Dollar for Dollar you can't beat a Pontiac!

★ ★ ★

② A look at the Price proves its Value!

In the short time since it was presented, thousands of people have flocked to see the great new Silver Anniversary Pontiac—few cars have ever had a reception to equal this. Most people came to admire, which is natural enough. But a great many people do more than admire, they start figuring—they begin to compare this wonderfully beautiful and desirable car with the modest price tag it bears. The conclusion is obvious—no car, at any price, offers more for every new car dollar you invest than a great new Pontiac! Drop in any time and look at the car—then look at the price—you'll be doubly sure that dollar for dollar, you can't beat a Pontiac!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

● In Memoriam 3

Mindelle Fissel Flickinger:
me may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile.
But they do not know the heart-aches
We suffer all the while.
If all the world were ours to give.
We'd give it, yes, and more.
To see the face of my dear daughter
Come smiling through the door.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Borough Council of the Borough of Fairfield at 7:30 o'clock, P.M., Tuesday, January 2, 1951, at the Council Chamber in The First National Bank of Fairfield, will receive sealed bids or proposals for grading and stoning Franklin Street from lands of James M. and Mary R. Landis to the Borough line for a distance of one thousand feet more or less.

The grade shall conform to profile showing center line grade and typical cross-section of street as prepared by LeRoy H. Winebrenner, borough engineer. All fill shall be placed in horizontal lines starting at the toe of the slope and continuing upward on a 1½ to 1 slope. All cut slopes shall be 1 to 1.

After the rough grading has been done, the entire grade shall be shaped with a power grader to conform to the typical cross-section. After this has been done and approved by the borough officials, there shall then be placed over the entire grade 3" Penna. #2A crusher run stone. This stone shall then be bladed into the grade and rolled to form a stabilized grade.

The finished grade for the excavation shall be 6" lower than the proposed finished grade, as shown on the typical cross-section, to allow for placing the stone that is required now and the additional stone later.

The contractor shall specify in his bid how many tons of stone he will place on the street.

All work shall be done in a neat and workmanlike manner and is subject to the approval of the borough council.

Each bid shall specify a time for the completion of the work provided for therein.

The successful bidder within ten days after the contract is awarded must furnish a compliance bond in the amount of fifty per centum of the contract price and a bond for the protection of labor and materialmen in a sum equal to fifty per centum of the contract price. He shall agree in his contract that in the hiring of employees for the performance of work, neither he nor any subcontractor shall discriminate against any citizen of the Commonwealth, nor discriminate against any employee hired on account of race, creed or color; also that he shall accept the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1915, and the supplements and amendments thereto, and will insure his liability thereunder and furnish proof of his having done so.

The right to reject any and all bids shall be reserved.

Bids may be delivered to Robert M. Musselman, Borough Secretary, or may be delivered at the Council Chamber at the time of the opening of the bids.

By Order of Council,
ROBERT M. MUSSELMAN,
Secretary.

Baltimore Livestock

CATTLE — Only an estimated 800 head of fresh receipts arrived bringing four days' total to about 3,400 head which compares with 4,350 a week ago and 1,900 the corresponding period last year.

Trading for slaughter classes was fair to slow. Prices mostly steady with small supplies the main supporting influence. Some sales of canner and cutter cows were 25 cents or so lower. The equivalent of 15 loads of stockers and feeders showed up with the balance mainly cows. The big majority of medium and good steers and yearlings went for slaughter at $29 to $32, just scattered small lots and odd head of high-good and choice offerings at $33 to $36. A small supply of common to medium slaughter steers brought $26 to $28.50. Common and medium heifers, $23 to 29; cutter lightweight heifers, downward to $20. The bulk of common to good beef cows moved scalewards from $20.50 to $24, a few high-yielding young cows around $25. Most canners and cutters cashed at $16 to $20. Medium and good sausage bulls usually found clearance from $24 to $27; a few good sausage offerings, $27.75 and $28. Common bulls were noted at $21 and up. Trading was rather slow for small supplies of stockers and feeders, this especially true of calves. Medium and good stocker and feeder steers earned $26 to $30.50, most sales noted at $26.75 to $30. Late Wednesday a load of good quality 1,053-pound steers went out for further finishing at $30.50. General clearance was good, although a small supply of lightweight stockers and feeders were unsold at a late hour.

Compared last Thursday: Slaughter steers and heifers steady to 25c. higher, more steady than otherwise; cows and bulls mostly steady; late sale canners and cutters weak to 25c. or so lower; stockers and feeders little changed.

CALVES—Prices today were very irregular. Early sales were mostly steady except for a very limited supply of high-good and choice vealers which sold $1 higher. Later trading was slow and weak cull to medium grades were sharply lower. Good and choice vealers and slaughter calves under 250 pounds brought $34 to $38 but the $38 top was paid very sparingly. Common and medium, all weights, cashed at $23 to $32 with culls and heavy calves noted at $20 and well below. Some underweight young calves $16 and under. Supplies were considerably larger than the previous week and a year ago.

HOGS—Marketings were approximately in line with last week and a year ago, from a numerical standpoint. However, demand expanded and prices advanced on each of the three early sessions. But a 25c. to 50c. lower trend developed on Thursday. Most good and choice 160 to 220 pound averages cashed from $20.75 to $21; top, $21; 220 to 240 pounds, $20.25 to $20.75; 240 to 260 pounds, $19.75 to $20.25; 260 to 280 pounds, $19 to $19.75, mostly $19.50 down; 280 pounds up, $19.25 down; 120 to 140 pounds, $18.50 to $19.25; 140 to 160 pounds, $19.50 to $20.25. Sows under 400 pounds, $17.50 down, except odd head slightly higher; most good 400 to 450 pounds, $15.75 to $16.75; over 450 pounds, mainly $15.50 down; stags $3 under price of same weight sows; garbage-fed hogs $2 under same weight grain-feds.

Compared last Thursday: Barrows and gilts, 75c. to $1.25 higher; sows, 50c. to 75c. higher.

SHEEP—Offerings were too small to furnish an adequate test of the price trend and quotations were nominally unchanged. A few odd head lots of good and choice-fed wooled lambs sold upward to $32.50. Ewes were virtually absent but choice wooled ewes were safely quotable to $13.00.

TALK TROOPS WITH GERMANY

Bonn, Germany, Dec. 22 (AP)— Two-thirds of Germany and her Western foes readied today for lengthy negotiations over a swap of German troops for near-independence for the Allied-occupied area.

Many months of talking between the West German government and the Big Three loomed before German troops could fight alongside their former enemies against Soviet Communism, or West Germany would become almost a free nation.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced last night after a five-hour parley with the high commissioners of France, the United States and Britain, that "there has been a big step forward" in plans to include West German troops in the West's projected 1,000,000-man defense force against Soviet aggression.

A communique on the conference disclosed that the three Western powers, offering their first big concession in return for German participation, have agreed to place their relations with West Germany to an increasing degree on a contractual basis." This was taken to indicate a removal of virtually all occupation controls.

The offer was in line with plans for the formation of the international army in Western Europe, made earlier this week by the 12 Atlantic Pact foreign ministers in Brussels.

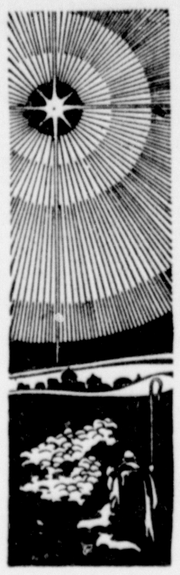
A Light for the World's Night

— THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM



Christmas and Christianity are still the hope of the world, as has been so for two thousand years.

Little godless men try in vain to draw down iron curtains to shut millions away from the Light that the Saviour brought into the world.

But God's Will, not theirs, will be done. So at this holiday season, we again look upward with sure and unshaken Christian faith.

Your friends in the First National Bank of Gettysburg wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

CHRISTMAS IS EXCITING TIME FOR CHILDREN

The Associated Press

Yuletide is a season of excitement and tension not only for adults but children as well. It is a time of the year when overcome by the spirit of the period children may forget the disciplines and behaviors so laboriously taught them by parents and teachers.

Yet, says Dr. Alvina T. Burrows, if parents remain reasonably calm and self-disciplined, they can help to keep their children equally calm and disciplined.

Dr. Burrows, who is associate professor of elementary and early childhood education at New York University's School of Education, believes that our Christmases are becoming too elaborate and out of character with the spirit of the season. Home, stores and even schools, she says, all go in for bigger and better Christmas celebrations. They have lost the philosophy of simplicty and of simple values which have endeared this season to us.

Parents should safeguard their children by avoiding extremes of all kinds, she says. Especially should they keep their children away from large crowds in department stores and on the busy streets. "If we, as adults become disturbed and tensed up trying to do our own shopping in the crowded stores, imagine how our children must feel as bundled up in snowsuits, they follow us through heated shops and department stores. No child can be expected to cope with such a situation and retain his self-control. It would be fatiguing even for an adult."

Tensions build up in school, too, says Dr. Burrows, as the time approaches to assign chief parts in Christmas plays. The competitive element enters with both children and parents all keyed up to see they get a good part. Many teachers look forward to the long and fatiguing auditorium gatherings with some qualms, she says..

Instead, advises Dr. Burrows, parents should substitute activities that are in keeping with the season and yet relaxing. Sister can help mother with Christmas preparations in the kitchen. She can do such simple things as greasing a cooking pan, mixing raisins into the dough, cutting out decorative pieces for cookies, helping to make the plum pudding. Thus she has a feeling of sharing and of belonging in the family.

Older children, she says can be given more rsponsible things to do. They can help make gifts, paint toys, do some of the fancy wrappings and take the packages to the post office. The more responsible things they are allowed to do, the greater their feeling of competence and of value to the family.

We can channel home of the excitement of the season into other activities, says Dr. Burrows. Vigorous outdoor play in the neighborhood can work off a good part of the tension. Reading, in school as well as at home, can befit the occasion not only the night before Christmas, but for several weeks beforehand. The mistake we make, as parents, she says, is in trying to crowd everything into two days.

The family, in cooperation with neighbors, can plan to have the children put on simple plays, without elaborate costumes and scenery. The original plays were simple, "and it is about time we returned to them." These should be planned by the children, with adults lending assistance only when asked to do so. The idea is to allow the children to express themselves, she says.

Above all, Dr. Burrow says, never threaten that Santa Claus won't bring a gift if junior is bad. Christmas gifts are not rewards for behavior but rather expressions of one's affection and love.

New Windshields Will Aid Squinters

Toledo—(AP) — Squinting automobile drivers in sun and snow countries may soon get relief from an improvement in windshields.

One new windshield, of bluish-green tint, has a shading of graduated intensity above the eye level to cut glare from the bright sky. Iron oxides in the glass itself eliminate more than 15 per cent of the infra red rays and yet admit more than 70 per cent of average daylight, said Dr. George B. Watkins, research director of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co.

MONKS COUNT 1,400 YEARS

Mountain Of Moses, Egypt (AP)—Deep in the desert wildernesses of the Sinai peninsula, some 40 Christian monks are carrying on a 1,400 year tradition of quiet worship in one of the oldest and strangest monasteries in the world.

They are Greek Orthodox monks of the rule of St. Basil. The weather-worn monastery of St. Catherine in which they live is built around the spot where God is believed to have spoken to Moses from a burning bush.

The ancient monastery, built like a Roman fortress, was built around the "chapel of the burning bush" about 545 A.D.

The chapel itself is believed to have been erected about 337 A.D. by St. Helena, mother of Emperor Constantine the Great.

Pilgrims have traveled the desert route to this isolated monastery for centuries. The trip is not an easy one, however, and there are few visitors.

The monastery was one of the chief centers of Christian pilgrimage during the time of the crusades. Crusader's coats-of-arms are engraved on the medieval masonry, along with inscriptions in Greek, Latin, Arabic and Russian.

The great Moslem prophet, Mohammed, is said to have granted the Christian monks a covenant whereby their lives and property are secure under Moslem rule.

Effectively isolated from the rest of the world, the monks lead a life poverty and austerity, spending long hours at prayer.

The monastery library is a treasure-trove of thousands of ancient and valuable manuscripts.

The American Foundation for the Study of Man has just completed micro-filming the entire library. One set of prints will go to the Library of Congress in Washington.

36,000 Apartments Built In New York

New York—(AP)—The number of persons now living in public housing in New York city exceeds the population of good sized cities. Gerald J. Carey, executive director of the New York City Authority, reporting on construction progess, has announced that since World War II, a total of 36,000 new apartments have been completed with 90 per cent of the tenants being veterans.

Including projects built before the war, this makes the authority landlord for 53,000 families, or more than 200,000 persons. Eleven more projects for which contracts have been awarded and 14 others with preliminary approval bring the city's program to 87 big developments providing apartments for 101,000 families. More than 380,000 applications are on file.

MALAY TEACHES CHINESE

Kuala Lumpur—(AP)—Believe it or not, there's a Malay in Kuala Lumpur who is teaching Mandarin, Hokkien, Cantonese and Hakka to Chinese. Constable Abbas bin Salleh, son of a planter in Selema, Perka, has a class of 54 police instructors, including five Sikhs and two Chinese. They are learning basic Chinese from him at the police depot here.

FOG PLAYS THIEF

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—The fog was so thick it was mistaken for a burglar. Police reported to a building where an automatic burglar alarm was ringing but found everything in order. They called an engineer from the alarm company. His diagnosis: heavy fog had cut the beam between two electric eyes, setting off the alarm.

PACKAGES NEED GAY WRAPPINGS FOR CHRISTMAS

By VIVIAN BROWN
(By The Associated Press)

If you are an early Christmas shopper, no doubt you also like to wrap your packages before the sleigh bells jingle. Then too, if you get a nice early start, your packages can have elaborate gift wraps that will dazzle your friends. Christmas packages not only should enhance the gift but also should be a decorative item for under-the-tree, or on-the-mantel.

Let's say you are giving someone a tie for Christmas. You know how a tie box always is so tattle-tale about its contents—the shape never is disguised. Brother always ruins the Christmas mood by saying, "What, another tie?" . . . or some such maddening exclamation. Well, you can still give a tie and wrap the box so prettily that it will distract the recipient from guessing at the contents. Here's how:

Use Contrasting Colors

Cover the box with green or red paper. Tie with contrasting satin ribbon around the box 2 inches from the top and 2 inches from the bottom. Add a small tailored bow to each. Paste a snowflake cut from a paper doily below each of the ribbons. Then cut out two Christmas tree shapes, each from a round 6-inch paper doily. Paste these on the box, so that the top points of each tree are poined in the center of the box, and the trees extend in opposite directions Paste a large red star at the point where the two tree tops are joined (or don't quite join the tree tops and put a star atop each). Paste gold and red seals over both trees.

A candy cane gift wrap is fun for a hanky or a stocking box. Cover the box with plain or candy-cane design paper. Tie the ribbon around the box cater-corner fashion. Do this so that you have opposite corners trimmed with the ribbon. Then make the candy-cane part of the trim. To make the canes if you wish, (you may substitute actual candy canes if the gift is going to a child), cut two pieces of wire 6 inches long. Wrap to the desired thickness with white crepe paper. Re-wrap with narrow strips of red crepe paper or red adhesive ribbon ¾ inch wide to achieve a diagonal stripe effect. Bend the top of the wire to shape the cane. Brush paste on the center of a 5-inch round doily and slip the cane through the center. Gather together to form a ruffle. Do this twice, and then tie the two canes in the doilies together crisscross fashion with a green ribbon bow. Tuck three more gathered doilies under the front bow and paste in place.

Snowman For Children

Make a cute snowman gift wrap for a youngster' stoy. After you wrap and tie the package with ribbon, make a gay doilie snowman with a jaunty peaked clown hat. Start by making his collar first with a piece of green crepe paper about 6 inches wide. Folf it in half and tie in between with gold ribbon to form a ruffle. Make his head, using 5 or 6 round 6-inch doilies. Pinch each doilie in the center and gather it. Then group the doilies to form a ball or pompon effect—the snowman's face. Fasten together with paste. Cut his features from gummed seals—his eyes out of blue lawyer seals; his nose and mouth out of sections from red notary seals. Paste them in place. Paste the complete head onto the green ruffle.

Make a hat for the snowman by rolling a strip of green paper into a cone 4-inches tall and large enough to fit on the head. Remove the center from one doily and paste the edge around the bottom of the hat as a trim. Add a band of gold ribbon on top of the doily trim and a gold ribbon bow at the point of the hat. Paste the hat on the snowman's head.

Hard-to-wray gift items such as homemade mittens, handkerchiefs of other items for which you do not have boxes can be rolled into a little ball and wrapped in gay paper with ribbons and bells hanging from it.

MANY PRESENTS HAVE LOW COST

By BETTY CLARKE
(By The Associated Press)

It would be nice at Christmas if you could match your purse to your heart of gold. But it doesn't always happen that way. The best intentions in the world when it comes to gift-giving sometimes must be limited by the old penny bank. It's the giver and not the gift that counts, and the thought and not the price that should count.

You can operate on a sequin shoestring at Christmas time in respect to your cash outlay. If you shop wisely and intelligently, you'll find something pretty for everyone on your list, quite within your means.

"Back to Reality"

Although you might like to give a jewel-encrusted compact to Jane or just the prettiest little fitted week-end bag to Susan, you've got to get back to reality and decide just what you can give that is appropriate and within your means.

Every cosmetics counter offers a bit of glamor, most of it packaged in suitable Christmas containers. Take into consideration the gift that will most please the recipient-to-be—in the case of makeup the colors that become her best, and in the matter of scents, which she would prefer. What more can you do? If you buy what you can afford, and give a thought to the selection, your gift surely will be appreciated.

Never give a gift to anyone unless you really want to do so, because "the gift without the giver is bare." You will reflect your own feeling of "getting that debt out of the way" if you just buy something for someone because you think you should.

YULE SYMBOLS

It is said that the symbol of Santa Claus originated in Holland, the Christmas tree in Germany, Christmas shoes (stockings) in Belgium and Christmas cards and the "Merry Christmas" greeting in England. Americans have contributed the turkey dinner and the poinsettia as a decoration because it blends into the Christmas color scheme.

PERFUME IS SWEET GIFT

(By The Associated Press)

Inexpensive packaging may put more perfume in Christmas stockings this year.

Some manufacturers, while not entirely disposing of fancy packages, are experimenting with putting perfume in containers of plain glass.

Joseph Stein, president of one perfume house (Lucien Lelong), says:

"Perfumers in this country really are in the bottle and box business—one reason why our sales are off 75 per cent since 1946. Manufacturers always have believed that unless you dress up perfume in fantastic packages and demand big prices, American women will realize they've been paying for the package all along—a truth we manfacturers didn't want to swallow."

Mr. Stein asserts women have switched to cologne, toilet water, sachet and other fragrances, in protest against perfume prices. Women who could afford to pay fancy prices were mainly interested in the pretty bottles. They exhibited the ornate glass containers on their dressing tables.

Stein says he has reduced the price of his own perfume by packaging it in a plain machine-made bottle at one-fifth the price of perfume in the smart museum-piece container. Fancy packages still are available for special gift days.

Also he is numbering his perfumes. Fancy names often can exaggerate perfume possibilities, but numbers, he says, can't be exaggerated.

Cuffs On Pants Catch Evidence

Glendale, Calif.—(AP)—Because he wore cuffs on his trousers, a service station attendant faces a burglary charge. Police said he admitted entering the station where he is employed by means of a pass key and taking $38. He then broke a window with a brick to make it appear that a burglary was committed.

He was arrested later asleep in his car nearby on a drunk charge. While questioning him about the broken window, police noticed bits of shattered glass in his pants cuffs.

New York Cares For Lost Animals

New York—(AP)—Unwanted, strayed or lost dogs, cats, pigeons, canaries and parrots have a new place to call their own in New York city. It is the $1,000,000 shelter and hospital of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. There is room for 450 animals.

For bathing, there is a chrome tub equipped with hose, shower and an electric dryer. Food is kept in electric deep freezer chest. Ramps set at easy-walking angles lead from one floor to the next.

There are no odors. Machines called electrical ionizers do away with smell and kill all germs. Outdoor playyards for the animals are kept free of snow. Buried steam pipes keep the ground dry.

KINDNESS DOESN'T PAY

Ipoh, Malaya — (AP) — Kindness doesn't always pay. A 43-year-old woman, Tan Say Mooi, was fined $20 for trespassing into the police compound. She was arrested while trying to hand a packet of roast pork to a prisoner.

One hundred million leaflets prepared by psychological warfare personnel were dropped in Korea in the first 125 days of operations.

USE BIRTHDAYS AS GUIDES FOR HOLIDAY GIFTS

(By The Associated Press)

New York—Having trouble choosing Christmas gifts?

Well, consult the stars. They'll tell you everything but how to pay for them.

Says Helene Paul, astrologer:

"If everyone based their Christmas shopping selections on the birthdates of the people they're shopping for, there would be less returns to the stores after the holidays. After all, everyone's personal likes and dislikes are acquired at birth, according to the planetary position at the time."

So, Mrs. Paul has drawn up a handy shopping guide based on the Zodiac. This is what you should buy for people born in the following periods and under the following signs:

CAPRICORN, Dec. 23 to Jan. 20—Both men and women under this sign prefer practical things. Like anything made of leather, belts, shoes, house-slippers, wallets, gloves, luggage, tooled leather desk accessories, also objects made of stone or marble or onyx. Lucky colors: oxford grey, bottle green and black. Lucky gems: Onyx, moon stone, sardonyx.

Anything Electrical

CAROLS ADD TO CHRISTMAS JOY

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

(By The Associated Press)

Music is important in the lives of our children. At Christmas time parents and teachers can help enrich the lives of children by teaching them carols and perhaps joining in a family chorus.

Making living worth while, says Mrs. Frank Kelly, music chairman of the Kentucky Congress of Parents and Teachers, is an immediate need of childhood. Writing in the Kentucky Parent-Teacher, she says:

"Making living worthwhile . . . is an idea that must be planted early and tended carefully through all the growing years. And so, from the first day he enters the public schools, the child is given not only the practical tools of communication and barter—reading, writing and arithmetic — but also the keys to better ways of living. For his bodily health there is physical education; for his understanding and adjustments to the world in which he lives, there are the sciences, natural and social; and for his emotional and spiritual development, there are the fine arts.

"Of all the arts music, perhaps, reaches the most people and touches them most intimately. Whether we ourselves sing or play or merely listen, we know that music is a part of life.

Music Part Of Life

"Going back to the far-off days of the psalmist David and the philosopher Plato, records show that the wise men of all times and countries have considered music not a luxury but a necessity to public welfare. Music is man's emotional escape valve as well as his confessional. It is the universal language that begins where the words leave off."

No better time to develop an interest in music can be found than at Christmas. Imbued with the spirit of the day and the preparations, the occasion can serve to develop a broader appreciation and interest in music than at any othe, time. Through music, she says, we can build a foundation of understanding and right attitude upon which can rest the emotional development of the child.

HOTEL SITE GOES BEGGING

Johore Bahru—(AP)—Want a good hotel site? You can have it for the asking. The Johore government has been trying for two years to get someone interested in putting up a hotel on a beautiful strip of land along the Straits of Johore facing Singapore. So far, no one has accepted the offer.

CHILDREN NEED TO LEARN ALSO JOY OF GIVING

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE

(By The Associated Press)

Children are so often the recipients of gifts that we forget they should also learn how to give graciously. Parents can help junior develop this attribute at Christmas.

Not only should we teach junior that to give is as blessed as to receive, but we should never discouraged a child from doing a kindly act, advises the National Kindergarten association.

Kindliness is one of the qualities that we admire most in our friends. It must, however, be cultivated in childhood if it is to flourish in adult life. By repeatedly performing little acts of kindness, the good habit is established and becomes a part of character, just as undesirable behavior—lying or stealing—by repetition becomes a habit, says the association.

Thought, Not Gift

The association cites the example of the little boy who returned from kindergarten his face alight with enthusiasm, as he made a special request of his mother.

"May I pick some flowers and take them to Mrs. Evans? She's not well, and I am sure they will make her feel better," he asked.

The lad's mother hesitated, thinking of the beautiful array of hothouse flowers this lady's many friends must have sent her. To soften the disappointment, she said, "I'm glad you thought of taking her some flowers; but ours are not very pretty."

"Mother, you jdst think that because you see them every day. I think they are beautiful, and I am sure she will love them," he urged.

"Very well," the mother replied.

Cheerful, If Gaudy

"I'm going to pick all the happy looking ones," he said

Junior's selection b ought together a curious assortment of flowers, but as he went through the garden, choosing some of the gaudiest flowers, he remarked, "These are so bright and cheerful that I am sure they will make her feel glad, even though she must stay in rer room."

In a very short time he had gathered and arranged his offering to his liking and had left for his friend's house, happy and proud of his gift.

The next day junior's mother called to see the old lady, and when she entered her bedroom, she was surprised to see her son's offering held a prominent place among the display of hothouse blooms.

Gift Of Love

Observing that she was looking with admiration at her beautiful flowers, the old lady remarked, "I have had many lovely bouquets sent me, but none have given me so much pleasure as the one brought by your small boy. A gift from a child is so definitely a gift of love, for there is no pretense with children. His flowers have made me very happy."

The mother explained her hesitance about allowing him to take her such ordinary flowers.

"There's where you made a mistake," counseled the old lady gently. "Had he brought me some of the chociest beauties of the hothouse they would not have given me nearly so much pleasure. His bouquet was a gift prompted by pure affection—a gift of that sort money cannot buy."

Srinagar, Kashmir—(AP) — Pakistani-held Gilgit Agency, in northern Kashmir, and the north-west frontier province of Pakistan will be linked by a 375-mile motor road, according to information received here.

The road will start in Hunza state, Gilgit Agency, and end at Peshawar, capital of the frontier province. A jeep road between Gilgit and Balakot, north-west frontier province, was constructed by the Pakistan army two years ago, but is blocked most of the year by snow.

Gilgit Agency is strategically important because it borders the U.S.S.R., Afghanistan and China as well as Pakistan.

LATE SHOPPING CHRONIC HABIT OF AMERICANS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(By The Associated Press)

The spirit of Yuletide is closing in. It's later than you think—haven't you seen those little notices (usually tempered by cartoons) telling you ominously that there are practically no shopping days left until Christmas?

It seems that either the years are getting shorter or that the periods between Christmases are shrinking. It seems but yesterday when I was looking over a whole mess of Christmas wrappings and ribbons, trying to decide what I could salvage for next year.

Nowadays you scarcely have exclaimed dutiiully over a pair of gloves four sizes too small than you hear the Postmaster General warning that the deadline for overseas Christmas packages is approaching very fast.

Begins In July

Personally, my annual attack of Santa Claustrophobia now has its onset in July, just when the thermometer is reaching record highs. There's always someone around who has returned from Europe, California, Canada or some such place to announce with complacency and superiority that she has found the most wonderful little out-of-the-way shoppe where she did all her Christmas shopping in about 15 minutes. This not only fractures any feelings of friendship I might have had for the person, but it starts me wondering about my own Christmas shopping. However, I do nothing more than wonder.

Personally, I have always been a stout advocate of last-minute shopping. By Christmas Eve, I always say, you are in just the right mood for shopping and it's fun to buck the crowds because most of the people have been to office-parties and are in no mood for combat.

But because Christmas now comes much sooner than it used to, I have a distinct recollection of last Christmas Eve. It was around 6 p.m. in the evening and I was running like a pursued fox from store to store trying to check off some 17 names remaining on my list.

Good Resolutions

"Next year," I said grimly, while elbowing a red-faced and determined gentleman from a vantage point at a perfume counter, "I will start my Christmas shopping really early—like day after tomorrow."

My idea was that all through the year I would pick up a little item here and a little item there—whenever I saw something that made me think of Aunt Ella or Uncle Gus.

So here it is again—practically Christmas Eve, and I haven't thought about Aunt Ella or Uncle Gus since I made the resolution. I can't imagine what would appeal to them—so I suppose Aunt Ella will get another oversize eye-dropper to baste an oven-roast and Uncle Gus, who doesn't drink, will get some new type of bar-supply as my present.

My ambition, if I recall, was to open my closet door on Christmas Eve and find within, all neatly marked, a complete assortment of Christmas presents. I opened the closet door the other night and I found the only things therein—except my own scanty wardrobe—are four wrapped and dusty Christmas presents which I neglected to deliver LAST Christmas. This includes a nylon slip for a cousin who doesn't like nylon, and a couple of detective stories for remoter relatives. The last undelivered present is a compact, and I never got around to putting a tage on it and I can't remember for whom it was destined.

Obviously none of these four giftees are going to give me presents this year—and they are going to be downright embarrassed when my year-late gifts show up.

I figure it's already too late to have my Christmas cards printed, so I'll have to decide right now either to stop sending cards or sign them in my own handwriting, with a personal message.

And it looks like last-minute shopping again this year. But next year. . . .

Tyroleans Argue On Snowy Passes

Vienna—(AP)—A "cold war" has broken out in the heart of the snowy Austrian sky country. Two provinces of Western Austria—the Tyrol and Vorarlberg—have most of the mountains and most of the snow.

Last week, the Tyroleans accused the Vorarlberg provincial authorities of carrying out a "snow blockade." They said the Vorarlbergers were refusing to clear snow off a pass that separated the two provinces.

This, the Tyroleans said, was preventing winter tourists from reaching them. The Vorarlbergers replied: "You can clear it off yourself if you want to."

COSMETICS ARE GIFTS TO MEET MODEST BUDGET

By BETTY CLARKE
(By The Associated Press)

Give another thought to Christmas before you yield that blue pencil on your gift list. Every year the same thing happens. We makea list of people to whom we'd like to give a little remembrance for special kindnesses shown to us, and when we are faced with the issue of ursue vs. list, we cross o many of our friends we'd really like to favor.

You can locate glamor on the budget at smart cosmetics counters. Gifts under $3 lead the parade for originality, packaging and utility. The tiniest gift probably is better than no remembrance at all.

A simple gift like a lipstick in a silver cocktail shaker base with gold cap top or a lipstick and nail polish combination in a little plastic Santa Claus will make a big hit. Tiny vials of perfume, cologne or sachet will perk up any girl's stocking. And what about purse-size atomizers, home permanent wave kits, bath essence and soap? Soap comes beautifully packaged and one flower of the-month soap collection contains a bar in a different scent for each month of the year. These gifts, although inexpensive, will please any girl.

Gift Suggestions

Such simple gifts as egg shampoo (one comes packaged with a plastic shawl), scented bath sponges, a cosmetic kit with plastic containers (perfect for traveling), a box of dusting powder (one contains a small vial of perfume in a drawer within the container), hairbrush set and compacts are top-drawer gifts for Mom or Sis.

Whenever you are forced to cut corners on your gift list, take it in stride. You can make up for your lack of funds by doing a pretty packaging job.

One good thing to keep in mind when you are out on your Christmas shopping spree—just look at the things within your purse reins. If you do not want to exceed $2 for a gift, tell the salesgirl so. Don't be intimidated into spending more. Sometimes we get in deeper than we plan when on a shopping trip, because even though we have a top figure down for Mary, we manage to spend a little more. Usually the first few people on our list profit by this lack of discipline on our part. Those who are on the bottom of the list are lucky to get anything by the time we get around to them.

Expert tribesmen can shape an arrow head or stone knife by pressure chipping in half an hour.

We bow our heads in thanks for all of the good that is with us this Yule — and send this spirit on to you.

DEAF KIDDIES LEARN TO HEAR WITH TRAINING

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—"Mommy." "Daddy." "Bye-bye."

Three simple words, spoken in a muffled tone, were the entire vocabulary of five-year-old Kay. The brown-eyed, dark haired little girl had been hard of hearing since birth.

Unable to hear spoken words, she could not understand the meaning of sounds and therefore was unable to speak. She had learned those three words painfully through constant practice.

Today, little Kay could deliver a speech with all the words she has learned at Manhattan's Junior High School 47, one of the largest public schools in the world for the education of the deaf and hard of hearing. Here Kay and six hundred other children learn how to talk and interpret speech along with the three R's.

Tots Have Aids

Even the tiny tots in their preschool nursery have little hearing aids strapped on to their waists. Even classroom is equipped with an amplifier. Maximum use is made of the smallest amount of hearing which a child may have. The Hearing Foundation of New York, nonprofit information bureau, says that no child is born totally deaf but that there is always some hearing. Ability to use this hearing will deteriorate rapidly unless it is stimulated.

Children who are unable to make sounds overcome the handicap by blowing feathers across their desk. The teachers carefully act out different vowels until the children can pronounce them. That feat is the first step toward speech. Parents are encouraged to sit in on this training when the child first enters the school. "The improvement in my little girl's speech is a miracle," little Kay's mother said at the end of her first year.

Make Extensive Tests

When a child enters the school, extensive tests determine how much her hearing was impaired. The school also maintains a testing clinic for the entire city, testing over 4,000 children each year. Doctors contend that half the cases of deafness, which generally begin in childhood years could be cured or at least arrested if given immediate medical attention. It has been estimated that three million children in this country are hard of hearing, half of them needlessly so because of ignorance or neglect. The Hearing Foundation figures that one-third or approximately one million need special aid to get through school.

Also included in the school program is work with children who have normal hearing but speech defects. Muscular training is given to cerebral palsy victims to help them also learn to speak.

Start Studies Of Sea Effects

New Brunswick, N. J.—(AP)—Rutgers university will begin immediately a year-long study of the effects of the coastal sea waters near New York harbor on various types of cordage, including fishing nets, according to Dr. William H. Martin, director of the N. J. Agricultural Experiment station.

Purpose of the study, Dr. Martin said, is to help fishermen and boatmen who from time to time report mysterious damage to their lines, nets and ropes. An attempt will be made to determine how much deterioration actually occurs, its possible causes, and what can be done to protect the gear.

TEACHER'S TROUBLES

Palmerston, Ont.—(AP) — Teacher Shirley D'Alton has a billy-goat in her one-room country school near here. A few days ago she removed a herd of cows, and boys removed a group of fighting pigs. But the goat won't be driven away. He sleeps through most of the lessons.

GIVE RECEIPES FOR TWO XMAS SUPPER TREATS

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
(By The Associated Press)

Here are two fine recipes for a Christmas supper party. Adapted from an old recipe, the Shrimp Mull can be prepared ahead of time and then be reheated and served over that wonderful product—pre-cooked rice. I know of no addition to pantry shelves that does better service than this rice; it's so quick and easy to prepare and produces such fluffy, good-to-eat grains. Add a green salad and hot rolls to the shrimp for your holiday menu, then end with a coconut igloo dessert—snowy white and glamorously beautiful for holiday parties.

Shrimp Mull

Ingredients: 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¼ club diced onion, 1 small garlic clove, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 No. 2 can (2½ cups) tomatoes, 2 cups water, ½ cup catsup; ½ teaspoon celery seed dash of tabasco sauce, ¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 to 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 pound raw shrimp (peeled, black vein removed, and cut in two lengthwise), ¼ cup fine cracker crumbs, 1 package (1½ cups) pre-cooked rice.

Method: Melt butter or margarine in saucepan or large deep skillet; add onion and cook over low heat a few minutes. Meanwhile peel garlic and crush in ½ teaspoon of the salt until garlic is in fine shreds Add to onion with remaining salt, tomatoes, water, catsup, celery seed, tabasco, Worcestershire and pepper. Cover and simmer 1 hour Add lemon juice and shrimp and cook 5 minutes or until shrimps are done through. Add cracker crumbs and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Prepare pre-cooked rice according to directions on package. Serve shrimp over rice. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: One box of quick-frozen shrimp may be used if desired.

Christmas Coconut Igloos

Ingredients: ¼ cup butter, ½ cup sugar, dash of salt, 1 egg (separated), ½ cup drained canned crushed pineapple, ½ cup broken walnut meats, 24 large vanilla cookies, 1 cup cream (whipped), 1 cup shredded coconut.

Method: Cream butter; add sugar and salt gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolk and mix well; now add pineapple and nut meats. Beat egg white until stiff and fold in. Spread mixture between cookies and stack 3 to a serving. Chill several hours in refrigerator. About 1 hour before serving, frost top and sides of each stack with whipped cream and sprinkle with coconut. Chill again. Makes 8 servings.

Encyclopedia Will Return To London

London—(AP)—The Encyclopedia Britannica, which originated in Britain, is going to be printed here again for the first time since 1911. It has been published in Chicago.

The 25 volumes are expected to be printed here by next summer. John Armitage, London editor of the encyclopedia, said the printing of 10,000 sets of the new edition "is the biggest printing job ever attempted in this country."

Each set contains 38,000,000 words and the publication of 10,000 sets will require 420 tons of paper—nearly 100 pounds to each set.

BELGIANS SAY WOMEN SHOULD STAY AT HOME

Brussels, Dec. 22 (AP)—The weaker sex should stay the weaker sex if the home fires are to be kept burning, seems to be the opinion of 74.9 per cent of Belgian men.

During a recent national public opinion poll this percentage of Belgian masculinity voted that even childless women should not go out to work.

They backed up their vote by some pertinent comments, such as — "I want to be looked after." "Women at work are tempted to be unfaithful," "Childless women at work are a menace to other households," "Women are sinful enough without further exposure at work."

The women evidently couldn't agree more about staying away from work. They voted 64.4 per cent to stay at home.

Their reasons were somewhat mellower. . . . "There is nothing finer for a woman than to look after her home, husband and children." "A well looked after home serves to hold a husband."

Want Equal Work

However, it was recognized that necessity caused most women to leave the homes for the factories and offices. In these circumstances the women plumped 77.9 per cent for equal-work pay. The men voted a tardy 59.3 per cent.

Some feminine whoops for this vote were. . . . "Women are equal to men." "The idea of feminine inferiority is centuries out of date."

Some of the men voted yes with reservations. One reservation was "Only for unmarried women. A married woman has her pots and pans."

Caustic comments from men against equal-work equal-pay were: "An inferior being does not deserve the same treatment," " The slightest illness and a woman takes the day off," "Men must keep their superiority and prestige."

DOLL I. Q. HITS NEW HIGH FOR '50 CHRISTMAS

It's beginning to look as if dolls are smarter than people.

Those in Santa's 1950 pack do practically everything that real live children do. Even the officials of the American Toy Institute are going around with a dazed look these days, as if they were afraid to believe their eyes.

Noma, the first electronic doll, sings, laughs, talks and prays in a real little-girl voice when a button on her tummy is pressed. There's nothing to wind up or plug in; the voice mechanism operates on electronic principles.

New born babies of the doll family are especially precocious. There's the Blessed Event doll, for instance, which frowns, smiles and kisses back when you press the button. It also can pout, suck its thumb and nurse. Another lifelike baby doll weeps big wet tears and wails lustily, just like a real live baby. The talented Dydee doll has learned to drink from a glass this year.

For fashion conscious young mothers, there's Wanda, the walking doll, dressed in an outfit designed by Sophie, the noted American couturiere, who also has turned out matching dresses for the little-girl owner. Doll and child now may walk down the street together dressed alike.

Other doll prodigies kick their legs, have hair that can be permanently waved and washed and plastic skin that feels alarmingly human.

SANTA PACK SHOULD HOLD HOBBY CRAFT

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
(By The Associated Press)

Christmas is the time of the year when all those special interests and hobbies of Junior can be nurtured and developed through the kind of gift you give him.

All that it takes, says Mrs. Emma Sheehy, Associated Professor in Childhood Education at Teachers College, Columbia University, is for parents to be alert to those interests and then to feed them.

It is unfortunate, but true, she says, that all too often grown-ups fail to respect the things children think important. Too often they try to discourage a child's interests instead of steering them into worthwhile channels.

Guide Activities

John E. Lane, president of the American Hobby Federation, with headquarters in New York city, also felt that when parents seek to discourage what they think are undesirable interests, it is up to them to steer Junior to other activities.

How better can this be done unobstrusively than at Christmas time, he asked.

Today there are 19,000,000 hobbyists and 20,000 hobby clubs in America, he said, and many of the hobbyists were started as a result of some gift at Christmas.

Encourage Dollmaking

Starting a hobby for Junior need not be expensive. Lane cites the example of the young girl who was started on a doll making hobby through a present of a bottle of India Ink, some cloth and some peanut shells. With these it was possible to ink in eyes, nose and mouth on walnut shells, peanut shells, etc., and then to fashion clothes to make a doll.

Another lad started sculpting with a simple tool and some dried apples. He was able to carve out figures and faces from dried apples, which were then shellacked.

Parents can encourage dollmaking, too, by saving all the Christmas wrappings for skirts and pants; string for belts and sashes and figures cut from cards for the bodies.

The important thing to remember is that youngsters should be started on doing things they can comprehend, he said.

Other hobbies children can start on require but the gift of a bottle of iron glue. With this and toothpicks, match sticks and match boxes, many youngsters have fashioned some truly startling ferris wheels and houses.

Harold John Loehlein, Army's defensive end and 1951 football captain, studied at three other colleges before entering West Point.

EYE-OPENER . . . When the clock strikes midnight on December 31, it's time to unmask and greet the New Year with eyes wide open, advises actress Jean Gillespie, suiting her actions to the words. In a few days millions of persons will be pointing to 12 o'clock.

USE BRUSH TO MAKE MERRY

(By The Associated Press)

It's fun to paint a merry Christmas, says Peter Hunt, noted Provincetown, Mass., artist.

Inexpensive store-bought or homemade toys may be transformed by the application of a little paint and imagination. Holiday decorations may be made by any amateur from odds and ends lying around the attic —pieces of plywood, discarded items of furniture or what-have-you.

Mr. Hunt has worked out a series of ideas for "transformagic," which he has put together in a booklet. In it are directions for many things which can be made at home for gay and inexpensive Christmas gifts. Says Mr. Hunt:

"Make merry with the paint brush and you will be surprised at the decorations and gifts you can create from outmoded furniture, old wooden boxes, dime-store objects and raw materials like old boards and plywood. . . . You don't have to be a trained artist to make ornamental candlesticks from the legs of a broken-down table or a miniature peasant village from chunks of wood."

These fun-to-do decorations are easy to accomplish by means of a few simple brush-strokes illustrated and explained in the new booklet, available at paint stores. With step-by-step applications of this "tear-drop" stroke, straight or curved, you can develop designs ranging from simple borders to flowers, wreaths, hearts, whimsical angels or whatever your fancy dictates.

HOME DISPLAY LEADS TO NEW YULE BUSINESS

By DOROTHY ROE

Pound Ridge, N. Y., Dec. 22 (AP)—It was the night before Christmas, the children were in bed and Lloyd and Jean Ensign were decorating the tree.

When the stockings were filled and the last ornament in place, Lloyd picked up a piece of bright aluminum foil and idly started cutting a design. When he had finished, a shining miniature Christmas tree stood on the table.

"Why that's perfect for a centerpiece!" said Jean. "Let's make some ornaments for it."

From other scraps of red, green, silver, blue and gold foil they fashioned tiny bells, fastened them to the tree with bent pins. When the neighbors saw the glittering little tree the next day, everybody wanted one. Lloyd and Jean whipped up a supply for their friends, and somebody said:

"Why don't you put these on the market next year?"

Put On Market

Lloyd, an oil company executive, considered the matter and thought it might be nice to spend more time at home. He worked out a machine to make the small ornaments and ordered the sheets of varicolored foil stamped out in New York.

Then the Ensigns began production, first in the basement of their home, later in a rented factory in nearby New Cannaan, Conn. Samples were ready to show at this year's Gift Show in New York, and the orders poured in from important stores all over the country.

Makes Large Tree

Now Lloyd and Jean Ensign are working and and night keeping up with their orders, and the Festive Christmas tree is to be seen in show windows across the country. It comes packed flat in a celophane envelope, with a package of the glittering little ornaments attached, sells for pin-money price. The eight sections of the tree are stapled together, open out to make a full-fledged table tree.

That's how a little tree fashioned by a weary father last Christmas Eve has grown into a big business in just one year.

NEW SCORING MARK

Cleveland (AP)—Hy Buller of the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League has established a new career record for scoring for defensemen in the circuit. With two-thirds of the season to go, Buller had 244 points on 68 goals and 176 assists for his career. The old record of 237 points was also held by a Cleveland player, Danny Sprout, now playing coach of Seattle in the Pacific Coast League.

BROKEN HEART KILLS FIGHTER

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 22 (AP)—Dandy Dick Griffin is dead. From the coroner's view it was "heart failure." But, say his friends, he actually kied of a broken heart.

Griffin was the uncrowned champion of the bantamweights years ago. He was one of the greatest fighters of his time. He suffered blindness after resin got in one eye and destroyed its sight. That caused the other eye to fail.

But he fought on in the interest of boxing. Single-handedly, without funds, be brought back legalized boxing to Texas. He got the law changed through strength of character and persuasiveness, his friends said.

Griffin promoted boxing after he quit the ring. He put on some of the best fight shows Texas ever saw. But it was the failure of a boxing promotion that caused him to die of a broken heart.

Made Lot of Money

Jack Kearns, Griffin's friend since the days when Jack Dempsey was king, had brought in Maxim. Maxim was to meet a former Golden Gloves star. The fans didn't come. Kearns knew the crowd wasn't big enough to pay the rent but he said he'd put his champion in the ring if Dick said the word. But some of the hungry preliminary boys wanted at least part of their money in advance. There wasn't any. The show was called off.

Griffin though only 52, never was a well man after that night.

Griffin made a lot of money in his day as a boxer and a promoter. But he gave it all away. He was the softest "touch" in town.

It was in 1921 while Griffin was preparing for a fight with Johnnie Buff, the champion, in Madison Square Garden that he got resin in an eye. The fight was called off—and his chance at the title was gone. He went completely blind in 1935.

Sheep Population In Australia Rises

Canberra—(AP)—Australia had 112,891,000 sheep last March 31, Commonwealth Statistician Roland Wilson reported. This is the latest date for which figures are available.

Australia's sheep population fell from 125,000,000 in 1942 to 95,000,000 in 1947, but since then has been rising steadily.

The statistician also announced in a statement that at March 31 Australia had 14,640,000 cattle, the highest number on record. This total included 4,890,000 dairy cattle. At the same date there were 1,123,000 pigs and 1,057,000 horses, Wilson reported.

15 Day Holiday In Ancient China

New Year's was a 15-day affair in old China when festivities began on the First Day of the First Moon and climaxed on "Teng Chieh," the Feast of Lanterns.

After the family gatherings traditional to New Year's Day, exchanges of gifts and all sorts of entertainments were in order until "Teng Chieh."

Northern China commemorated "Teng Chieh" very simply. Paper lanterns, hung in doors and windows, symbolized the advent of the longer days. Southern China, however, climaxed the festivities with spectacular lantern-lit parades featuring huge fire-breathing dragons, supported from within by many men, wiggling through the streets.

Hitless Wonder Gets His Tank

With The First Marine Aircraft Wing In North Korea—(AP)—While Capt. Grover C. McClure, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., was flying north of Pyonyang, he spotted an enemy tank on a narrow road. He put his plane into a dive and let fly a hail of rockets, but the tank maneuvered smartly and the rockets landed around it. No hits.

McClure launched two more rockets directly in front of the tank. Still no hits. But the rockets confused the tank driver. He swerved off the road into a rocky ravine. The tank turned over and over, bouncing right out of the war.

REAL STORY OF HUMAN PAIN IS STILL MYSTERY

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York, Dec. 22 (AP) — The mystery of pain is explained in a new book Principles of Internal Medicine. (Blakiston Co., Philadelphia). It tells the entire story of medicine almost wholly in language that even a doctor must read slowly to understand.

The pain section is much clearer to a laymen, possibly because even today scientists know little about pain.

The book says that the nerves that carry pain are different from those conducting cold, touch and pressure. Exactly what these pain nerves are is not known. They may not even be special nerves, but some sort of a combination.

At least two pain-nerve pathways are identified. One carries "bright, pricking" pain that is likely to make you jump.

This pain travels through some of the thick nerve fibers. When you burn your skin the pain is carried by a different set of nerves. They are smaller and they carry the pain sensation more slowly. The differences in speed are small fractions of seconds only.

This duel pathway for pain does not tell much of the puzzle, because each nerve is made of two thousand fibers.

Pain is due in part to the kind of tissues and their arrangement. What would case pain on your skin does not hurt intestine or the membranes that hold them.

A cut in a muscle does not cause much pain. But strong solutions getting into muscles, for example in a hypodermic, cause pain. Muscles are most likely to hurt when they are rigid, a condition that doctors call spasm or cramps.

Arteries and veins, but particularly arteries, may find needle punctures very painful.

One of the worst pains of all, from the heart condition known as angina pectoris, is a sensation of aching and burning, which doesn't stop for even an instant. It is due to lack of enough oxygen in heart muscles.

Finally there are emotions. Most pain is partly emotional. The emotions are apt to make it hurt worse.

YOU'LL BE SORRY . . . With the heavy burden of 1950 weighing upon his old shoulders, the passing year embraces with compassion the infant 1951, whose time draws near to take up the cudgel in his year-long bout with the world.

NEW GAMES ARE DEVELOPED FOR "YOUNGER" SET

(By The Associated Press)

Small fry who have longed to join the family game circle will find special joy in Santa's 1950 pack.

New board games for the "can't read or write" set have been developed with techniques which hold the interest of older members of the family too. This year there's a game for everybody from the playpen to the rocking chair.

Hex, the zig-zag game, is one of the new best sellers for the preschool crowd. It uses a field of hexagonal spaces on which players attempt to build and unbroken line in a streamlined adaptation of tic-tac-toe.

Fun cards also provide new diversion for non-readers. Each car shows a familiar animal shape with cut-out letters indicating the name. The player who fills in his card first wins.

The cowboy rage is reflected in a variety of board games that utilize range-riding conflicts as the basis of competition, sponsored by such popular characters as Howdy Doody and the Lone Ranger.

Cinderella is represented by a colorful board game with a bag full of slippers as playing pieces and picture cards that make it easy for pre-school children.

For school-age youngsters there's a vogue for real-life situations in games. Politics and big game hunting, financial speculation, foreign trade and oil prospecting are a few of the current topical board games.

For indoor athletes there are many new variations of dart games, hockey, billards, bowling, basketball, baseball and croquet, scaled down to parlor size. A golf putting game introduces a new device that challenges the skill and saves the carpet.

Most abundant form of life during the "Mississippian" geological era were animals called crinoids which were attached by stems to the bottom of the sea.

Each Baby Has Its Personality

New York, Dec. 22 (AP)—Every baby has a distinct personality.

So says Miss Yvonne Shannon, assistant head nurse in the premature baby ward at Presbyterian hospital.

To prove her point, Miss Shannon makes cartoons of her tiny patients, most of whom spend their first weeks of life in plexiglass incubators. Her sketches endow the babies not only with personalities of their own, but also with a sense of humor.

Miss Shannon started doing the cartoons after reading an article in a medical magazine in which the author set forth his worries about babies being isolated from their mothers.

Her sketches showed the progress of the babies in their glass houses, and proved to doubters that the babies gained both weight and character. Proud parents often take the sketches home along with the babies.

The smiling nurse nas no desire to change careers, however. Say she. "I'd rather be a nurse, as long as I can take care of little children."

English Cheer New Year's Day

Prior to England's adoption of the Gregorian calendar in 1752, New Year's Day was observed on March 25, and of course, New Year's eve was march 24.

The English always had a big time on New Year's Eve, and after the Puritan government abolished Christmas and absolutely forbade any solemnization or celebration thereof, the people vented all their holiday spirit on the New Year.

Even after the restoration of the Stuarts brought about a revival of Christmas customs and traditions, Christmas never reattained its former eminence; but New Year went right along, surviving Puritanism and later, in 1752, the switch in calendars and the date of its observance.

WOMEN PREFER SURPRISES AS XMAS PRESENTS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(By The Associated Press)

American womanhood, housewife variety, has been duly polled. At least three out of four allege they would rather be surprised at Christmas than dictate—however indirectly—the choice of their spouse's Yuletide offering.

The pooster in this case is an important magazine (Woman's Home Companion), which deduces from its statistics that women are as romantic as schoolgirls around this time of the year.

It quotes typical reactions favoring the surprise element in Christmas gifts as "Even if the gift isn't quite what I wanted, it still reflects real thought and love" and "I feel my husband would miss a lot of fun if he couldn't shop for my gift. . . ."

The magazine also deduces that women who prefer to direct their husband's choice of gifts are practical, with decided tastes and rather hard to please.

Far be it from me to fly in the face of statistics or even a poll, but I feel that a large number of the polled ladies are indulging in a little day-dreaming, quite forgetting some of the surprise presents they have encountered under the tree in previous years.

"I like to be surprised," said the first victim of my own private research, "and I like to surprise my husband on Christmas. My husband always tries to surprise me, but usually he hints about what he has bought me."

"Useless" Gifts

"What was your surprise present last year?" I queried of my friend, who is strictly a boudoir type.

"Well," she said, "it was a pair of custom-made hunting boots."

She was touched and she certainly was surprised. She hasn't worn them yet.

"And custom-made—so I can't exchange them," she wailed.

Another friend is surprised each year by her present. It's always several nightgowns, handmade, beautiful and black lace.

"I adore to be surprised by his present," she said, eyes aglow with affection. "He always asks me what I want and I always tell him a mink coat. So each year I get my black nightgowns. A couple of weeks later I say casually that they are too small or too large, and that I will have to exchange them. Then I exchange them for something I really want. The funny thing about it is that he never notices. I've never worn a black nightgown in my life and don't ever propose to. But he's such a dear. . . ."

Like To Be Surprised

Analyzing our own poll statistics, I can only conclude that women take delight in envisioning their own particular man struggling ineptly and rather helplessly in Christmas shopping crowds. All I know is that four women said firmly that they preferred to be surprised by their husband's gift. Each mentioned how her husband hated to shop—apparently taking vast comfort in the thought of the male breasting the mop in search of a gift for his beloved. Apparently, a flagon of "Nuit d'Amour" obtained from a perfume counter in mid-shopping season is more greatly to be desired as an expression of true love than a couple of deer and a brace of partridges for the deep freezer acquired by Papa's camping in the cold woods for a week during hunting season.

My informants allege further that when men think of presents for their spouse, their thoughts run in routine channels: perfume, stockings, nightgowns—and robes.

"But don't ever let your husband surprise you with a robe," warned one wife. "They always buy such flossy, fussy ones you can't wear them. It's hard to exchange them for something simpler—they notice the difference and are unhappy."

In the interests of fairness, we interviewed a number of husbands. Did their wives like to be surprised by their Christmas gifts?

"My wife tells me what she wants for Christmas," was the uniform answer, "and I go out and buy it. Sometimes the instructions come in a round-about way, but I'm pretty sure of my orders in plenty of time before the great day. Me? I act surprised each Christmas over socks, ties, shirts and pipes."

North Burma Rebels Fight Each Other

Rangoon (AP)—Daily gun battles between Communists and White Band PVO rebels are taking place in North Burma, according to the Burmese government. Each is apparently determined to exterminate the other.

There are now four White Band PVO groups. One has accepted the government's amnesty terms and is surrendering. A second has aligned itself with the government and has sworn to fight other rebel groups. The third has made an alliance with the Communists and will continue to fight the government. The fourth group has sworn to fight just about everybody.

PRIESTS TELL OF CAPTIVITY

Immensee, Switzerland (AP)—Three Swiss Roman Catholic missionaries have returned to Switzerland after three years in a Chinese Communist prison in Manchuria for alleged collaboration with the Japanese. The three priests, Father Friedrich Hort, Johann Imesch and Franz Senn, reported on their experiences in guarded language, evidently fearful of harming eight other Swiss priests still imprisoned under sentences ranging from five to 12 years.

"We suffered greatly from the unclean habits of the other prisoners," Father Hort said. "There was an unimaginable plague of insects, vermin and nearly all the priests caught typhus—some of them two or three times. We were not ill-treated by the authorities," Father Hort said, "but we suffered from the malice of the other prisoners."

A system of public confession was introduced at the prison, at which every prisoner had to confess his crimes and errors and demonstrate that he was turning towards Communism.

"Under this system, the other prisoners would make false accusations against us, in order to enlist the sympathy of the prison authorities," Father Hort said.

President Of India Condemns Sex Appeal

New Delhi (AP) — "If I had the power, I would stop the showing of films with sex appeal," says Dr. Rajendra Prasad, President of India.

"Such films are playing havoc in our society and having a bad effect on the minds of men and women," he told the first all-India conference on moral and social hygiene. It was understood he was referring to Indian motion pictures.

May all your worries melt like snowmen on a sunny day, and may you have as many joys as there are snowflakes.

BOOKS ALWAYS ACCEPTABLE AS XMAS PRESENTS

By VIVIAN BROWN
(By The Associated Press)

When in doubt, give that girl or boy books or records. The boy who likes adventure or the girl who is interested in a career will be thrilled with a book or a hoped-for record in the Christmas stocking.

Something For The Girls

"Rainbow Campus" by Ethel Todd Anderson (Thomas Nelson) is a mystery story which centers around students of the University of Hawaii. There is lots of enchantment in the book including picnics, swimming, dances and the fun of Island living combined with classes.

"Mr. Benedict's Lion" by Walter D. Edmonds (Dodd, Mead) is an exciting story about a young professor of a girl's school who is sent to New York by the headmistress to buy a piano. What happens when Mr. Benedict arrives in New York with the piano money but minus the address of the piano company, and accidentally becomes possessor of a lion makes hilarious reading.

"Big Doc's Girl" by Mary Medearis (Lippincott) is in its 14th printing at this point but it is still an exciting story for girls who never have read it. Originally published as a book for adults, teen-agers soon were captivated by Mary, the endearing heroine of this book.

"One Bright Day" by Pearl S. Buck (John Day) is the story of a day in the life of an American mother and her two daughters ashore in a Japanese seaport. What they had expected to be a dull day, turned out to be a day crowded with pleasure and interesting experiences.

"The Captain's Daughter" by Elizabeth Coatsworth (Macmillan) is a delightful story of romance and adventure. Janet, headstrong daughter of a sea captain, is sent on a year's voyage to the Orient on her father's clipper ship, to forget about the young man next door of whom her father doesn't approve. Janet becomes very mature in the year away from home, visiting new lands and receiving new suitors, and changes from a defiant, heartbroken girl to a pleasant young woman.

"Secret of the Gate House" and "The Mysterious Fireplace" (Grosset and Dunlap) two more in the Dana Girls series, are available for those who love this adventurous series.

Something For The Boys

"Tim's Place" by Eva Knox Evans (Putnam) is the story of an 18-year-old Austrian boy who befriended an American boy who died in the war. Stephen comes to live with the American boy's farm family, works long hours in the fields and performs numerous chores. How Stephen managed to persuade the youngsters in the family to like him after many, many months of animosity makes a lovely story.

"The Baseball Story" by Fred Lieb (Putnam), "Rambling Halfback" by Wilfred McCormick (Putnam) are ideal books for boys who like sports.

"Bob Cilfton, Jungle Traveler" by Dock Hogue (Holt) is a sequel to the exciting story of Bob as an elephant hunter. Bob tracks down a killer lion and rescues his father from torture by witch doctors who had captured him.

"Showdown" by T. Morris Longstreth (Macmillan) is the story of 17-year-old Nicky who accompanies his basketball team to a game in northern Canada. The plane crashes and some of the boys are hurt. Nicky manages to aid the boys who are hurt and while tempers often flare up, all the boys come out of this adventure much better friends, and a much better team.

"Timberland Adventure" by Lynn Bronson (Lippincott) is an American adventure story set in Oregon forest lands in the 1900's. Nat, a 16-year-old American boy persuades a young English cabin lad to jump ship and make a new start in America. Together with Nat's grandmother, the boys start a pioneering project full of danger, and fun in the Northwest.

Additions to series include Chip Hilton—"Pitcher's Duel" and a new Tom Quest, "Hidden Stone Mystery" (Grosset and Dunlap)). The Illustrated Junior Library adds "Jungle Book" and "King Arthur," two handsome books for the small fry's library.

Yule In Tune

Christmas records available include: Perry Como's "There Is No Christmas Like a Home Christmas" (RCA Victor), Bing Crosby and his sons in "A Crosby Christmas" (Decca), "Twas the Night Before Christmas" with Arthur Godfrey (Columbia)), "Dennis Day Sings Favorite Christmas Songs" (RCA Victor) and "Adeste Fiedlis" and "Silent Night" with Nelson Eddy (Columbia).

Record suggestions for year-round use include: "Call Me Madam" with Dinah Shore, "Muggsy Spanier Favorites," "Hugo Winterhalter Plays Isham Jones" (all RCA Victor), "South Pacific" with the original Broadway cast, "Kiss Me Kate," original cast, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," original cast, "Peter Pan," original cast (all Columbia).

Add a little curry powder to a can of baked beans when you are heating them. These taste good served over hamburgers on toasted buns.

Overshoes Are Just Too Tough

Papeete, Tahiti (AP)—If you want to start a fight with a Tuamotu islander, simply mention the "giant pahua." Pahua is a shellfish of the clam variety. Its flesh is the color and toughness of India rubber, and when dried it smells like rubber that has been well scorched, but it is a staple of diet for the islanders.

Some years ago the eastern Tuamotu people found washed ashore a case of rubber overshoes. Never having seen rubber or overshoes, they concluded this was a giant form of their favorite delicacy. After vainly chewing raw overshoes for a while, they decided to try cooking. For many days they boiled the shoes, with periodic tasting, until finally a trading schooner captain arrived and told them their mistake. He related the story throughout the south seas, to the delight of all the other islanders and the discomfiture of the Tuamotuans.

Raymond, Alta. (AP)—Hail damage to sugar beet crops has cost farmers in southern Alberta a yield loss of some 30,000 tons this year.

St. Helena Crime Is Cut To Minimum

London (AP)—St. Helena, Napoleon's place of exile, has just about reduced crime to the absolute minimum. A report from the South Atlantic island said the average daily prison population in 1949 was one as compared with two the previous year.

The island has a population of 4,664. Its main agricultural industry is the production of phormium hemp. A shortage of jobs exists, the report said. Cases in the small debts court rose from five in 1948 to 137 last year.

FIND OLD LAW BOOK

Berlin (AP) — For decades clerks have been sitting on an old time-worn volume in the offices of the Wasungen court in the Russian zone. They didn't know what they were sitting on. A curious judge examined the book recently and found that it was a copy of the Sachsenspiegel (Saxon Mirror)—the oldest known German law book printed in 1582.

WHITE CHRISTMAS TREE

You can make artificial snew for your Christmas tree with soapsuds. Use a minimum of water, whip up thick dry soapsuds with an eggbeater or electric mixer. Apply them to the tree and they'll cling indefinitely. If you still want to sprinkle powdered "snow", use the soapsuds as a base.

We hope we haven't missed you — but if we have, here's wishing you a Merry Christmas.

OOD IS MORE PLENTIFUL IN BRITISH ISLES

(By The Associated Press)

London—This will be the closest to ration-free Christmas that Brit-n has enjoyed since 1940, but many d food favorites will still be miss-g.

Butchers already are predicting at pork will be hard to get. They probably won't have enough even for regular customers, although the present meat ration is only 23 cents weekly.

Turkeys are still scarce and other shortages continue in sugar, butter, eggs, tea and bacon. Housewives making their own puddings and cakes will have a hard time finding raisins, mincemeats and candied peel.

Plenty Of Cakes

But the Ministry of Food has lifted the four-pound weight restriction on confectioners' cakes. Shoppers now can order any size cake, iced and decorated, paying the controlled price of three shillings ninepence a pound.

Other welcome changes are the large quantity of Christmas puddings, by reputable manufacturers, already lining the shelves. And for the first Christmas in years, cookies of all kinds are off ration and in quantity.

A pleasant surprise this year will be a large variety of canned prepared foods, off ration for the first Christmas since France was invaded in 1940. Most are French, Danish, Dutch, Belgian or Polish, but there also are canned corncobs, corn kernels and other delicacies from Canada and the United States.

Chickens And Hams

Canned fruits generally are in ample supply but canned peaches, pears and pineapple still make only rare appearances on the shelves.

To amplify the scanty meat ration there are cooked Dutch chickens, canned whole, and tins of cooked ham weighing anything from 16 ounces to 10 pounds.

CAR PRICES RISE

Singapore (AP)—The present trade boom sweeping Malaya together with the shortage of new cars coming into this country is bringing higher prices for second-hand cars. Dealers say prices have risen from 10 to 12 per cent in recent weeks.

HOLIDAY CANDLES

Candles to be used for decorative purposes will not droop if given a coat of shellac, say the experts. To be cleaned, they need only be wiped with a damp cloth.

TITO INSTRUCTS SPORTS WRITERS

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (AP)—Marshal Tito's newspaper has sharply instructed Yugoslav sports writers to be fair and objective and not to emulate "Russian writers who juggle statistics to make it appear that Soviet athletes are the world's best in every field."

In a two-column lecture to sports writers, the newspaper accused them of displaying partiality for the home team.

"Too often," said the paper, "when our teams meet foreigners, our sports reporters exaggerate our successes and hush up our defeats. This is a dangerous tendency which leads to nationalism.

"We know that statistics can always be rigged to prove almost everything. That's what the Soviets do. By using special point systems they try to make it appear that their athletes are the best in the world. We should avoid this by all means."

Since Tito's break with the Cominform, Yugoslav sports teams have been boycotted by the Russians and surrounding Soviet satellite nations.

FINDS DUTCH INFLUENCE

Sydney (AP)—Aboriginal paintings in north Australia picture 18th Century Dutchmen in the Dutch costumes of that day. The report was made here by G. Donkin, an explorer. He thinks some of the paintings also show the aborigines were influenced by India.

New Store Stirs Milan Controversy

Milan (AP) — The construction of Europe's "most modern department store building" alongside Milan's famous cathedral del Duomo momentarily scandalized this land of architectural treasures. The controversy, raging from Milan street corners to the Italian Cabinet, is yet to be settled and may eventually reach the courts.

All the fuss was caused by the clean lines of the leftwing of the new building only a few yards from the Gothic beauty of the cathedral on Milan's Piazza del Duomo.

Beavers Obstructing Gas Pipeline Work

Corry, Pa. (AP)—Beavers are responsible for holding up construction of a natural gas pipeline through this section. The animals blocked up a 100-yard lakefront area in the pipeline route. Engineers were required to use several dozen sticks of dynamite in blasting the beavers' dam work.

They made no effort to trap the furry creatures but farmers probably will take on the job. The beavers branched out and completed the even more unappreciated project of flooding pasture acreages and farms in the same vicinity.

OLDSTERS HAD MANY CUSTOMS FOR NEW YEAR

Curiosity and superstition always have greeted the New Year hand in hand with mankind's bright hope for the future.

In olden times, families sought a glimpse into the year just beginning by observing the 'dipping' custom. With his eyes closed, the head of the house opened the family Bible and indicated a passage with his finger; the text, solemnly read and interpreted by the family, was indicative of the luck—good or bad—that was in store.

Probably one of the most widespread superstitions concerned the "first-footer," the first person to cross the threshold on New Year's morning. Women and light-haired men were considered unlucky "first-footers," as were people who walked pigeon-toed.

Old Superstitions

In some villages, the superstition was taken so seriously that a dark-haired man was given the first-footer job and, going from house to house, he would be the first person to cross the threshold, thus preserving the good fortune of the community.

Anglo-Saxons, believing that something might happen when the New Year burst in, often climbed upon the roof on New Year's Eve so as to have a good view of any such event.

And we moderns make as much noise as possible, presumably because our primitive ancestors believed that noise would keep evil influences at a distance.

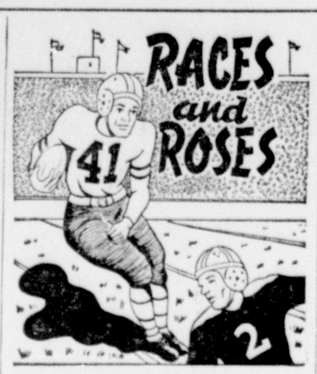
British Give Aid With Flying Boats

Singapore — (AP) — British flying boats are estimated to have flown more than 1,000 hours by day and night in helping out in the Korean war. They have been, and still are, on patrol, reconnaisance and communications operations. They are credited with having helped U.N. naval forces to blockade the Korean coast, flown search missions to locate minefields and made rescue patrols to aid survivors from lost ships.

The veteran No. 88 flying squadron is now leaving the Iwakuni base in southern Japan and returning to Singapore via Hongkong. To replace it, Squadron No. 205 of British flying boats has gone to Japan to take up anti-submarine and mine-spotting patrols.

UNLUCKY SHOT

Fort Erie, Ont. (AP)—Paul Babel, 20, and a companion were hunting rats on the town dump when a huge rat raced towards Babel. His companion fired and the bullet killed the rat—after passing through Babel's foot.



If a thing of beauty is a joy forever, a good idea is a good idea for a reasonable length of time, at least. And hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent annually by hundreds of thousands of people who think collegiate football on New Year's Day is a good idea.

The fabulous Rose Bowl game started out as a supplement to the Tournament of Roses when the first east-west game was played on January 1, 1902. Of course, it might have been a better idea—from the California point of view—if the barnstorming University of Michigan had not barnstormed to a 49 to 0 victory over Stanford.

This might have had something to do with substituting chariot races for the football game in 1903.

Originally run with amateur drivers, the chariot races became professional affairs after the first few years, and the public lost interest. The year 1916 brought a return to collegiate football via a contest in which Washington state defeated Brown university.

Prior to dedication of the Rose Bowl in Arroyo Seco, the games were played in Tournament Park. In 1923, the bowl in Arroyo Seco was dedicated with an original seating capacity of 85,000. Recent enlargement made it possible for a paid attendance of 100,234 in 1949.

The tremendous success of the Rose Bowl classic has 'mushroomed' various 'Bowl' games from coast to coast. Among the many, there are the Orange Bowl, the Sun Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the 'Gater Bowl, Hawaii's Pineapple Bowl, and even Alaska's Ice Bowl.

All these 'Bowl' games are rapidly becoming a great American New Year's tradition, but the daddy of them all, the Rose Bowl game, continues to be the outstanding collegiate sporting event of the season.

FRUIT CAKE IS SUGGESTED FOR EGG NOG PARTY

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
(By The Associated Press)

If you like fruit cake that has the texture of pound cake you'll enjoy the one made from the following recipe. It has a most delicious flavor, spiced with just the right amount of nutmeg and cinnamon and with old-fashioned dark molasses giving it a subtle taste.

Try making some fruit cake cookies, too, if you want something good. They're wonderful to serve with holiday egg nog. Have you seen the brand new nutmeg grinders? Guests will love grinding their own nutmeg to top their egg nog cups, and the lovely mellow wood of the grinder is an addition to any table all the year round.

Cinnamon And Nutmeg Fruit Cake

Ingredients: 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 2 cups (1 pound) butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 cup old-fashioned dark molasses, 3 eggs, 1 cup broken walnut or pecan meats, 7 cups (3½ pounds) mixed diced candied fruit.

Method: Sift together flour, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon. Cream butter or margarine, baking soda and sugar. Add molasses; mix well. Stir in 1 cup of flour mixture. Beat in eggs well, one at a time. Stir in nut meats and fruit. Gradually stir in remaining flour mixture. Pour batter into an 8½-inch tube cake pan and a 6-inch round pan (measure pans across bottom) that have been lined with 2 layers of brown paper and greased well. Bake large cake 3 hours; small cake 2 hours. Makes 7½ pounds fruit cake. NOTE FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING: Bake fruit cake right in tin gift boxes obtainable at ten cent stores. The above recipe makes enough batter to fill four of the round 6-inch boxes. Each cake will weigh almost 2 pounds.

Fruit Cake Cookies

Ingredients: ½ cup butter, 1½ teaspoons vinegar, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon allspice, dash of nutmeg, 1½ cups raisins, 1½ cups currants, 1½ cups candied pineapple (about 6 slices), 1½ cups candied cherries (1 pound), ½ cup thinly sliced citron (4 ounces) 1½ cups broken walnut or pecan meats.

Method: Wash raisins and currants; drain well. Cut other fruit in small pieces. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly; beat in egg yolks. Stir vinegar into milk and add. Sift flour with baking soda, salt, and spices. Stir in with fruit and nuts. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet and bake in slow (325° F.) oven 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 8 to 10 dozen cookies.

R.A.F. RECRUITS IN SINGAPORE

Singapore (AP)—Twenty-seven more new recruits have qualified for service with the Royal Air Force in Malaya. The group consists of ten Chinese, eight Indians, five Malays and four Eurasians. They completed a six-week drill and disciplinary course and will receive further training in air technical jobs at the R.A.F. Seletar air base near Singapore.

Compacts Provide Excellent Gifts

By BETTY CLARKE
(By The Associated Press)

You can't go wrong by giving her a compact. A fastidious girl who likes to be sure her compact always is available earmarks one for each handbag. But whether she is a one-compact woman or makes a collection of them, Christmas is the ideal time to break in a new compact.

The variety of compacts available offers great possibilities to the shopper. There is a wide selection, from pigskin compacts for the sportswoman to elegant jeweled compacts for the playgirl, all within the budget.

You'll find compacts encased in wallets accompanied by lipstick, a compact with mirror which does a complete somersault and swings around to the inside when the cover is lifted, a tiny but deep compact with lipstick and perfume in one easy-to-find unit, a sparkling compact and lipstick covered with pear-shape brilliants encased in a satin holder.

Ribbons Help Busy Girl On Presents

(By The Associated Press)

The girl with little of either time or money can settle her Christmas gift problems simply and thriftily with home-made ribbon accessories.

Such things as handsome stoles, gay cummerbunds, hat and handbag sets, dickeys and belts can be made with a few yards of ribbon and a few minutes time.

Directions for making these gift gadgets are contained in a booklet "Ribbon Hows" available at most department store ribbon counters. If you can't find the booklet, it's easy enough to figure out how to make the things yourself.

You can select three colors of ribbon, for instance, in two-inch grosgrain, moire or satin, and whip or fagot them together to make a beautiful stole or ascot scarf. You can make a Scotch cap and simple bag out of wide plaid taffeta ribbon. A cummerbund of the same is a smart and welcome gift.

And if you're handy with the knitting needles, a lacy knit stole with knit ribbon stripes is simple to make and sure to dazzle.

XMAS CUSTOMS ORIGINATED IN SEVERAL LANDS

(By The Associated Press)

Americans, although of many nationalities, are completely in unison about Christmas customs in the United States.

We adopt the symbol of Santa Claus from Holland, the Christmas tree from Germany, Christmas (shoes) and stockings from Belgium and Christmas cards and "Merry Christmas" greetings from England. America has contributed the turkey dinner and the poinsettia as a decoration.

All over the world Christmas bells peal forth the birth of Christ and the Nativity is the great holy picture carried in the hearts of the faithful on Christmas morning.

Many From England

Many of our customs are of English origin, and in England these old traditional customs still are observed. In olden days English manor houses were open to all and tables were laden with sirloins of beef, mince pies and foaming ale. Today, although our menu is varied, we still leave our homes and hearts open during the Yuletide.

The English Yule Log and the huge candles which were lighted to shed a glow on the merriment in olden days is part of our American celebration. The English wassail bowl which was filled with hot mulled ale, in which was mixed strained honey with grated nutmeg on top started the vogue of the brimming punch bowl to be found in many American homes on Christmas day.

Chinese United In Red Mass Marriages

Singapore — (AP) — The surge of Communist culture which followed the conquest of China has hit Malaya's Chinese full force. Its biggest success has been in vitiating the Chinese marriage.

Scores of Chinese couples from all parts of Malaysia have collected in Singapore to be married in the mass marriage ceremonies sponsored by the colony's most active pro-Communist organization, the Mayfair Musical and Dramatic association. The mass marriage has eliminated all the solemnity and done away with all the tradition of the old Chinese marriage whether performed in temple, at home or in church.

Private Ocean Growing Oysters

New York — (AP) — Since Colonial days, Long Island, New York, has been one of the few places where land under the ocean can be owned. As a result the bays around the island have an important place in the oyster industry. Oyster farmers grow their crops in their private ocean.

It takes five years to grow an oyster. Emphasis is on quality. When the crop is "ripe" it is harvested. Some of the oysters are shipped fresh, often by air to distant points. Others are canned.

BUMPER CROPS FOR HOLIDAYS

(By The Associated Press)

This should be a very good Christmas for the food budget. The Department of Agriculture reports turkey production is the largest on record, cranberry production the second largest. The sweet potato crop is the largest in several years, and 10 per cent above last year. The apple crop is well above average, the orange crop is expected to be high, grapefruit production is larger than last year. Markets will have large supplies of carrots, onions and Irish potatoes. Pork prices are expected to be the lowest for the year in December. There will be plenty of hens, broilers and fryers. Stocks of honey held by beekeepers are the largest on record—good news for the cookie and dessert maker.

Cornbread makes a fine base for a creamed dish. Have the cornbread piping hot, cut in squares, slit each square through the center and then sandwich the creamed dish between the slices.

Akron, Ohio (AP)—How round can a rubber tire get?

According to B. F. Goodrich tire engineers, 12 solid rubber tires used at Langley Aeronautical Laboratory, Langley Field, Va., are within 2-1000 of an inch of being perfectly round.

The special tires are used on a carriage for both water tests with seaplane floats and impact tests with an airplane wheel touching a concrete runway.

FASTEST U.S. JET SMACKS RUSSIAN "MIG"

An Advance U. S. Air Base in Korea, (AP)—America's fastest jet fighter plane, in its first combat, sent a Russian-made MIG-15 jet spinning earthward in flames and smoke on Sunday.

Four North American F-86 Sabres scored a clean victory in a five-minute aerial dogfight with four Soviet-type MIG-15s 10 miles south of Sinuiju, in northwest Korea. The other three Red planes fled across the Manchurian border.

Lt. Col. Bruce H. Hinton of Stockton, Calif., shot down the MIG in a contest eagerly awaited by men of this stripped down airfield.

"One Fast Package"

The group commander, Col. John C. Meyer ,of Forest Hills, N. Y., praised the Sabre: "It's just the finest airplane I ever saw or ever flew. It's just everything good wrapped up into one fast package. It's even nice to taxi and nice and warm and comfortable to sit in. It has all the little things as well as all the big ones."

The Sabre, the U. S. Air Force's top line operational jet, is presumed to be the fastest jet in the world. It holds the official world's record of 670.981 miles an hour, established September 15, 1948, at Muroc Air Base in California.

The question has been: "How will it stack up against the Russian-built MIG-15s?"

Does Victory Roll

Both have swept-back wings and the MIG-15 is believed to be the newest and fastest of the Russian jets, with a speed in excess of 600 miles an hour.

When Hinton streaked back from the first air battle in which an F-86 has participated he did a victory roll over the runway. The cheering men of this base then knew the answer before the colonel brought the sleek fighter in for a landing.

Hinton grinned and said: "I caught him and let him have it and down he went. The Sabre is the best there is."

Lt. Paul W. Bryce, Jr., of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., another member of the flight, was the last to see the stricken enemy plane. He said: "The fellow was about 3,000 feet and was coming down, definitely out of control. I am sure he never was able to pull out of that spin."

Found None At First

Other members of the flight were: Capt. Morris B. Pitts of Birmingham, Ala., and Capt. Raymond Janeczek of Passaic, N. J.

The F-86s had flown two missions prior to their aerial battle. The first was on the day they arrived—December 15. That day they encountered no enemy. On December 16 a snow storm held the fighters to this field.

On December 17 they flew a bomber escort mission, accompanying B-29s to the Kanggye area but encountered no enemy planes and only light flak. On the afternoon of December 17 they went out, as one of the pilots said, "to wait and look for MIGs."

When Hinton performed his victory roll waiting air force men on the ground jubilantly jumped and began to shout: "He got one! He downed a MIG!"

University Prexy Carries Paper Route

Chapel Hill, N. C. (AP)—The man brought the bundle of newspapers into the soda shop the other day, and pitched it onto the counter, accidentally knocking other papers to the floor.

"What's the matter with you?" stormed a clerk.

"I'm sorry, I'll pick them up," the man replied.

Later the scarlet-faced clerk learned that the man was Gordon Gray, former Secretary of the Army and new president of the University of North Carolina here. The regular carrier was sick. Gray's son had promised to pinch hit, but became ill himself. So the university president became carrier for the day.

More Grasshoppers Predicted In 1951

Regina (AP)—Saskatchewan farmers have been warned that 1951 may be a bad grasshopper year. The Provincial Department of Agriculture says infestation by the stubble grasshopper, voracious enemy of grain crops, probably will be worse than in the last two seasons.

The Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Saskatoon says an extensive anti-grasshopper campaign will be required in a large part of the province.

ITALY'S TREES HIT BY BLIGHT

Avellino, Italy (AP)—Some 58,000 American taxpayers' dollars are being used to fight a blight attacking Italy's chestnut trees. That is an insignificant amount against the more than $1,500,000,000 in European Recovery funds already poured into the Italian economy. But the job of keeping Italy's chestnut groves in good health is far from insignificant.

This city of 30,000 in the foothills southeast of Naples is the center of one of the regions of Italy that thrive on chestnut trees. The well-to-do count their wealth in acres of chestnut timber. Processing of the timber and the fruit give the poor work and food. From the chestnut trees come poles for communication lines, props for grapevines, wood for window frames, furniture and even farmer's carts. The chestnut itself is the merchandise of countless peddlers on city street corners whose charcoal roasting fires are a magnet for children and grownups.

Dried chestnuts are ground into flour for puddings, cakes and even bread. Italians also call the chestnut the poor man's bread.

Americans have determined that the blight is the same one that in recent years wiped out most of America's native chestnuts.

NAMED FOR ADMIRAL

Miami (AP)—A War Admiral colt, now at Hialeah, has been named "Bull Halsey," after the hard-bitten Naval officer. The horse, which will make its first start early in 1951, is out of the mare Gallawood and was purchased for $22,000 by Lawrence Lewis at the Keeneland Sales last summer. The name was selected following correspondence with the fighting admiral.

SAYS U.S. MUST CONSERVE ALL HER RESOURCES

Washington, (AP)—"Bold imagination and prudent husbanding of our resources" are needed to meet the threat of what may be a life-and-death world struggle, the president's Water Resources Policy commission says.

Named last January, it submitted its first report to the White House this week.

The commission said: "We are committed to a titanic contest in which the proper utilization of our resources may prove the ultimate determinant of our strength."

By 1975, 700,000,000 acres of additional food-producing and will be needed to feed the U. S., the report said.

Say "Water Used Badly"

Headed by Morris L. Cooke, Philadelphia engineer, the commission was name to formulate a long-range program for development and use of water resources.

The report said that almost a year of study showed that this country has "used water badly," causing serious wastes which, if continued, will "impoverish us and our people."

There never was a "more crucial" time for bringing about a change, the commission argued.

It advanced 70 recommendations for coordinated development of water resources projects. These will go to Congress soon as proposed legislation, Cooke told reporters.

Seek Coordination

The keystone recommendation asks coordination of all agencies in unified river-basin planning, with emphasis on multiple-purpose projects.

Until programs are prepared and approved the commission proposed that:

1. Projects now under construction should be completed quickly.

2. New projects should not be started unless they conform with revised and approved plans.

Criticism of the report came swiftly from the executive committee of the American Watershed Council, which viewed it as a boost for "greater" federal government control of the nation's major river basins."

FIRE BOMBS FAIL

Kuala Lumpur — (AP) — Napalm (petrol jelly) bombs used with success against the Korean Communists have proved ineffective against Malaya's Communists. The director of operations, Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Briggs, said many attempts have been made to drive the Reds out of the jungle by fire, but that the jungle simply will not burn.

Aid To Yugoslavia Is Given Publicity

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, (AP)—American food relief shipments to hungry Yugoslavia are receiving full publicity in the Communist government's controlled press. In this winter of hardship following the country's worst drought in many years, the man-in-the-street knows from where his help comes.

The first food ship to arrive from the U. S. was greeted at the port of Rijeka (Fiume) by Luba Babic, deputy chairman of the Yugoslavic economic council, and U. S. Ambassador George Allen. Speeches of both remarking on America's prompt response to Yugoslavia's pleas for aid were front-paged in the Belgrade press.

Escaped Convict Rewards Captor

As a result, Hall spent two weeks in solitary and lost trusty privileges. The next contact Smart had with Hall was a package in the mail. It contained a hand tooled cowhide wallet.

GUIDED MISSILE PROBLEMS FACE ARMED FORCES

(By The Associated Press)

Washington—One of the newest wrinkles in military education is learning to use a weapon not yet available—the guided missile, which takes up where long-range artillery leaves off.

At the Guided Missile School, Fort Bliss, Tex., officers of the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps learn about the changes which this weapon will bring in the tactics and techniques of warfare.

The problems are discussed in a recent issue of "Army Information Digest" by Capt. Nels A. Parson, Jr., of the school staff.

Parson doesn't say when the guided missile will be ready for use. But it is well known that all the armed services have been hard at work on its development since the war. The Germans' V-1 and V-2 bombs pointed the way.

Long Ranges Studied

"The Army is especially concerned with the tactical employment of the surface-to-surface missile in support of ground operations," Parson wrote.

The idea is to be able to hit anything that might be of immediate assistance to enemy forces—to knock out bridges, supply depots, railroad yards and masses of reserve troops, all of which could affect the outcome of a battle in progress.

Conventional artillery is not practical for ranges greater than 15 or 20 miles. But reserve troops and material now can be held 100 miles or more behind the lines, and yet be put into action within a few hours.

Advantages Of Missiles

"Therefore a family of missiles is needed, beginning at the maximum range of conventional artillery and extending without limit," Parson says. "Generally, however, missiles with ranges up to about 150 miles will probably be adequate for most tactical targets."

Aircraft can give such tactical support to ground troops. But planes can't fly in bad weather. And they can be swept out of the sky if the enemy has air superiority. Also, they are vulnerable to anti-aircraft defense. And they will be even more vulnerable as guided missiles which can track aerial targets like bloodhounds are developed.

How Missiles Work

Guided missiles can be fired in any kind of weather. They can be made to fly faster than sound, and thus are almost impossible to intercept. They can carry warheads as heavy as the charge in an airborne bomb—far more destructive than an artillery shell.

The guided missile is a sort of winged bomb, unmanned, guided to its target by commands originating from outside it or by instruments built into it. It follows radar beams or responds to radio siginals from the ground.

The missile is propelled by a jet motor—either the rocket type, which carries it own fuel and oxidizer, or the atmosphic jet which flies lower and uses atmospheric oxygen for burning its fuel. Since the missile provides its own power, its launching platform doesn't have to be as masssive as artillery.

The enemy will have little defense against these weapons, Parson writes. The enemy can be struck suddenly with all the force of a heavy air raid, and with much less warning. His only protection apparently will be to keep all installations dispersed at all times. However, that will greatly complicate the military operations which go on behind the lines.

Malayan Girls Now Like "Painted Dolls"

Johore Bahru, Malaya (AP)—Malay girls in Johore state are shocking their elders by discarding sarongs for Western frocks and making up like "painted dolls."

Che Azizah binte Ja'afar, principal of the Johore School of Domestic Science, who called on them to "go slow," pointed out Malay girls had also done away with the "kain kelubong"—a sarong worn around the body and over the head—for head scarves. Che Azizah did not deplore the adoption of Western customs, but thought Malay girls were overdoing it.

CONSIDER WHALE STEAKS

Sydney — (AP) — Whale meat may eventually be provided for Australians. It has been pointed out that much of the whales now caught in the Antarctic is wasted. Members of the Australian parliament recently sat down to a meal of whale steak. Their reaction has not been recorded.

EX - SEAGOING STEWARDESS TO SETTLE DOWN

(By The Associated Press)

Vancouver, B. C. — Sea-roving stewardess Mary Peck says she'll settle down—but only on conditions.

She wants a home overlooking the sea, time to entertain her seafaring friends and the chance for an occasional short cruise.

"I'd settle for that," says the brown-haired stewardess, who has visited all the continents, seen all the seas, and sailed through both the Panama and Suez canals.

Miss Peck, who resumed her maiden name after her husband's death eight years ago, has spent five years as stewardess on Swedish and Norwegian ships. She has been visiting her eight-year-old daughter and parents at nearby New Westminster.

Although she admits that sea fever is hard to cure, Miss Peck says she's "really going to have a stab at staying home." She is looking for a shore job, preferably "something exciting."

Target For Cupid

"I'd like to remarry, settle down and have my little girl live with me," she says. Linda has been staying with relatives in New Westminster.

Asked if she would consider a proposal from a sailor, she says: "That's a difficult question to answer—I know so much about them."

Born in Edmonton, she had never seen a ship before she was 21, and was seasick on her first trip to sea. She recalls:

"I'll always remember the customer who asked me for pie a la mode and coffee. I just turned on my heel and ran."

That was the only time she has been bothered by mal de mer.

Sixty-two days is the longest time she ever spent without seeing land. The longest time she's been ashore in the last five years were the nine months she spent working at different jobs in Australia. There she canned fruit in a factory, helped make alarm clocks and looked after stores for a machinery company.

New Machine Can Watch The Baby

Chicago (AP)—A new people-detector can give you one-man shows in store windows, watch the baby, guard safes, or open doors. It goes into action if anyone comes within a few feet of it, and can be rigged for various duties.

The detector consists of a long wire, finer than a human hair. A tiny electric current runs through it. Let a person approach close enough, and the current increases, tripping switches to operate lights, motors, or to ring alarms. The detector, properly called the Electron-O-Switch, was developed by E. R. Skaggs, A. J. Hoehn and V. H. Disney of the Armour Research Foundation of the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Use the carcass of chicken and turkey to make an economical and delicious soup. Add tomatoes, onion, carrots, parsley, and celery leaves to the water you cover the chicken or turkey bones with and season with salt, peppercorns, whole cloves and a bit of bay leaf.

REDS DESTROY OLD LANDMARKS

Berlin—(AP)—Communist dynamite teams are snapping East Berlin's ties with the past. One by one, they are erasing historic landmarks dear to German hearts.

The Communist engineers maintain that the landmarks are so bomb-damaged that they are a menace and cannot be restored.

The non-Communist Germans in West Berlin are in a mild rage over it but can do nothing except splutter. It's just spite, they say.

Anyhow, in the process, Frederick the Great, Kaiser Wilhelm and Adolf Hitler are getting a pushing-around. Frederick, astride a bronze horse, was unceremoniously hauled off Unter den Linden and carted away recently. Hitler's Reichschancellery was finally buckled completely and can no longer be identified. Most of the marble and masonry is gone. Now the Kaiser's town house, known as the Berlin Schloss (castle) is being destroyed.

Marine Brothers Are Wounded In Korea

Privates First Class George and Michael Kaczmarek of Buffalo, N. Y., both members of the famed First Marine Division, were wounded in the fight for the liberation of Seoul.

The Kaczmareks were wounded on the same hour, of the same day, while fighting with the same division in the same battle.

Thailand Expects Larger Rice Crop

Bangkok, (AP)—Thailand expects a good rice crop in 1951. The government is basing national income next year upon an estimated rice export of 800,000 tons.

But Phra Chuang Kasetsilpakarn, minister of agriculture, says there is every indication the 1951 crop would equal that of 1950 and should produce 1,200,000 tons for export.

There were earlier forecasts of a bad crop. Phra Chuang said floods in northeastern provinces had damaged only lowland rice while the yield in hill rice is expected to be high.

The minister predicted harvests in the central plain and northern provinces will be "very good."

PRICE CONTROL PROBLEM TERMED MOST DIFFICULT

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington—(AP)—Within 10 days after Pearl Harbor President Roosevelt called a White House conference of industry and labor leaders.

He told them that to keep this country from ruinous inflation in the war program, prices and wages would be held down and he'd set up agencies to handle labor-management problems to be fair to both.

In return, both management and labor gave a pledge: labor said there'd be no strikes in the war; management said there'd be no lockout of workers.

Thereafter the Office of Price Control sat on prices and the War Labor Board laid down rules on who, and under what circumstances, could get a wage increase. Generally, it set a limit on wage increases.

First Problem

Now the government has a price control office and a wage stabilization office—both part of the Economic Stabilization Administration—to control prices and wages.

But there has been no White House conference of industry and labor and no pledges have been given.

But the first problem of prices and wages already is in the government's lap. This is the auto industry.

Last week the biggest automakers announced they were going to raise prices on their new cars. Dr. Alan Valentine, head of ESA, asked them not to. They said they had to because of a rise in the costs of labor and materials, but particularly steel and government-controlled synthetic rubber. The government raised the rubber price December 6.

Order Price Cut

But ESA cracked down and Saturday ordered them to roll back the prices to where they were December 1 and keep them there until March while ESA has a chance to study the whole price-wage control problem.

Actually, ESA doesn't have a staff large enough to put price and wage controls on the rest of the country at this time and make them work.

Still, being ordered—not asked—to keep down prices and wages, has visibly made the auto makers unhappy. And the auto workers, too. So the government, through its Wage Stabilization Board, has called a conference between representatives of the auto industry and the CIO Auto Workers Union.

Out of this conference may come some solution, or some part of a solution, on the wage-price problem. It's not something which can be settled by one conference, as you can remember from World War II days when the problems of wages and prices was unending.

Unusual Situation

But here at the very start of the problem now the government is confronted with an unusual situation, as you'll see in a second.

The law which Congress passed in September giving the government power to hold down prices and wages, says that whenever prices in any industry—right now in the auto industry—are frozen, wages must be held down, too.

Now in some other industry the problem might be comparatively simple, even when there's a union involved. For if the company's prices were held down the workers wouldn't have any special arrangement for getting wages up.

It's different in the auto industry. The auto workers union has contracts with the biggest companies that calls for this:

When living costs go up 1.14 per cent, the workers must be given an increase of 1 cent an hour in pay. It's a five-year contract. About 1,000,000 workers are covered by this kind of agreement.

But now, with the automakers' prices frozen, suppose living costs go up. Is it fair to the workers to deprive them of this 1-cent-an-hour more, due to higher living costs?

And is it fair to the automakers to hold down their prices if most of the rest of the country isn't under government orders to hold down prices and then the costs of materials go up?

Solution Difficult

It's not an easy problem for ESA. Walter Reuther, head of the auto workers union, says he'll fight any attempt to freeze wages in the auto industry. General Motors, the largest auto maker, said the price freeze on cars placed "in jeopardy" the five-year wage agreement with the auto workers.

At this point the government, since it's unable to impose wider price and wage controls instead of singling out one industry, is paying the penalty for not being even near ready to do a real job of controlling prices and wages, although the problem has been talked about for almost six months.

Septagenarian On Expedition

Hamburg, Germany (AP) — When does a man reach the age where he stops seeking adventure? Never! is the answer given by the man who should know: German Africa explorer of the early 1900's, Paul Graetz. He announced at the celebration party of his 75th birthday here recently that next spring he intends to cross the Dark Continent from Cape to Cairo by car.

The explorer intends to keep his expedition small. Besides his 34-year-old wife and their eight-year-old daughter, he intends to take only one other.

SALT FLAT BECOMES LAKE

Sydney (AP)—Lake Eyre in Australia has never been anything but a vast salt pan—at least in the memory of present Australians. But now floods have filled it with water, 4,000 square miles in area. A recent exploring party toured it in a launch. One member got seasick. The party was mystified by a tide on the lake of from 12 to 15 inches.

Every Customer A Friend No Matter How Much They Spend

SAYS HALF OF WOMEN'S FACES IN U. S. "DIRTY"

By BETTY CLARKE
(By The Associated Press)

It is possible that half the women of the United States have dirty faces? It sounds inconceivable in a scrub-happy country where soap practically grows on the trees. Yet a prominent skin specialist recently told men that if American women could keep their faces clean and take more baths, they might not be wrinkled at eighty.

He pointed out that farm women who must wash and bathe frequently to remove the sweat of toil usually have better skins and fewer wrinkles than the average working girl or city housewife of the same age.

Many of this dermatologist's clients are glamor girls and actresses who come to him with blackheads and other skin blemishes—the direct result, he says, of putting makeup on dirty skin.

These girls frequently spend a large portion of their allowance on perfumes, colognes and other cosmetics, and select them with the utmost care. But soap is just another bar of soap to them, he says. There are wonderful complexion soaps super-fatted with the same ingredients that go into cold cream. Yet these dig down and deep in cleansing the skin. You can get them as highly scented as sachets in lingering fragrances of rose, gardenia or Sweet William.

The skin specialists thinks too many girls stay up until the wee hours of the morning, then are too weary to bathe, and probably even to wash their faces. In the morning, they haven't had enough sleep so they barely have enough energy to give their faces a mere cat lick with the wash cloth. Sometimes they slather a bit of cleansing cream over the face, instead of washing it, and since they hastily remove the cream with cleansing tissue or towel, the residue left on the skin is like to do more harm as it clogs the pores.

Country girls, he says, usually have prettier skins than city girls because they go to bed earlier, find time to attend to their beauty and health chores, and get up early enough in the morning to eat a good breakfast and perform ablutions leisurely.

If you want to stay young and pretty, observe the following charm rules as suggested by this dermatologist:

1. Get eight hours sleep. Late hours will not only bring on circles and puffiness under the eyes but will cause premature wrinkles and crows feet.

2. Take a bath as often as possible. When it isn't convenient, scrub your face, shoulders, back and other vital points in a sponge-bath fashion. Your neck is important, also, so do not forget to treat it to a good soap and water bath every day. This also helps to tone the skin and keep the creepiness from creeping in.

3. Always remove everyvestige of makeup with soap and water followed by a good cleanser, before new makeup is applied.

4. If cake makeup causes skin blemishes, switch to a lighter foundation lotion or cream. If you keep your skin smooth, however, you should not need either.

5. Whenever possible give your skin a chance at a good breathing session by not using any makeup. A week-end at home just resting, bathing and beautifying is a wonderful pick-up. Every girl should rest at least one week-end each month.

Siamese Penalize School Violations

Bangkok—(AP)—The Siamese Ministry of Education has closed six Chinese schools in southern Siam for failing to keep a daily record of school activity, failure to hire competent teachers and other violations.

These requirements are part of the new laws governing Chinese schools. The schools were ordered to close after an education mission had toured the area on inspection.

Film Will Show Williamsburg Story

Williamsburg, Va. (AP)—Motion pictures will soon show the history of this restored center of American Colonial life. Scenes are being made using the authentic reproductions of colonial structures.

About 300 citizens of the community, many of them in costumes from before the American Revolution, are taking part in the documentary presentations.

An important part of the filming has centered around the Josiah Chowning tavern. Between scenes the costumed actors and modern visitors often sat side by side at the tables and were served by costumed waiters.

LENINGRAD HAS LARGE STADIUM

Moscow—(AP)—The largest stadium in the USSR is located not in Moscow, the Soviet capital, but in Leningrad.

The Kirov stadium in the northern city seats 85,000 persons. For special events there is standing space for an additional 35,000.

This capacity is well above that of the Moscow Dynamo stadium. The Soviet capital does not intend to lag behind Leningrad for long however, for plans are under way to expand the Moscow Dynamo stadium and to complete another immense stadium of equal capacity.

The Leningrad stadium was started in 1933. The body of its structure consists of earthworks raised by the builders. The surface work are, of course, all of concrete.

The stadium is sourrounded by the Finnish Gulf on three sides. It rises above the level of the island and from its top there is a magnificent view.

The stadium is complete for all types of sport events. It has a football field and a regulation track. It has a pool for swimming competitions and even a hotel with complete accommodations for visiting athletes.

PANAMA CANAL TOLL DISPUTE STILL RAGING

Washington—(AP)—President Truman decided back in March, 1948, that there ought to be a little hike in the toll rates for the Panama Canal. Canal Zone expenses had gone up a lot since the last toll rate rise in 1938.

Toll rates in the privately operated Suez Canal have been raised from 28 Egyptian piastres in 1939 to 39 piastres. The President announced that on October 1, 1948, the rate for the Panama Canal would rise from 90 cents to $1 per ton for laden ships.

But the rate rise never has gone into effect. It has become involved in one of the stormiest controversies now raging in the capital—involving such issues as the building of a new canal and reorganization of the canal's administrative and operating set-up.

At the suggestion of Congress, the President has repeatedly postponed the effective date of the rise while Congress studied the issues. Now it is set for April 1, 1951.

Ship Operators Protest

Shipping interests protested to Congress when the raise was first announced. They said ship operators were barely able to make both ends meet and some were losing money. Besides, they were already being charged too much in tolls, they contended, because in setting toll rates the government made them pay for items which should be charged to national defense.

The House Merchant Marine Committee was instructed to make an investigation. It recommended that the whole theory of Panama Canal tolls be examined. The current practice is to change tolls which will defray the costs of operating and maintaining the canal and Canal Zone facilities, besides giving the government a 3 per cent return on its investment.

But nobody knows the true operating expenses of the canal, the investigators pointed out, because there is no business accounting system. The Hoover Commission asked a reorganization of canal administration to simplify acounting.

At the suggestion of the House committee, the President had the Budget Bureau make a study. It recommended a reorganization, substantially along the lines of the Hoover Commission plan. A bill is now in Congress.

New Canal Involved

Shipping men contend that half the interest charges should be paid as national defense. The interest charges, about $15,000,000 a year, account for 75 cents of the 90-cent toll.

Cross-continent railroad men, on the other hand, say that no such allowance should be made for national defense, that it would amount to a subsidy for shipping.

The subsidy, they add, would go to foreign vessels as much as American ships. Treaties require equal toll rates.

A new canal also is involved. Will toll rates be based on interest charges on that vast new capital outlay?

If so, the rise might be fantastic. A government study in 1945 recommended the construction of a sea-level canal, primarily for defense purposes. It is estimated the cost at $2,482,000,000. Since then many prominent engineers have questioned the advisability of such a canal and have said the cost might be as high as $20,000,000,000.

At present U. S. government ships use the canal toll-free. The reorganization bill provides that they shall henceforth pay tolls or that the canal shall otherwise be reimbursed.

This is a step in the right direction, say the shipping men, but they feel that under the plan the government still wouldn't be paying its full share for national defense.

British Put Cigs Ahead Of Eating

London—(AP)—Britain's little people would rather trim the food bill than deny themselves those cigarettes if a salary cut struck. Mass Observation, a commercial outfit that polls the British public on timely topics, got that result in a poll of middle class folk on this gloomy line:

"Given a one-tenth reduction in income, when would you make your cuts."

Ignoring a dismal country parson who replied "across my throat," the figures showed that 32 per cent of those queried would take the first hitch in the food bill. But only 22 per cent would cut down on smokes.

General Got Short "Security" Answer

Camp Cooke, Calif.—(AP) — They teach every buck private that "loose lips can sink ships." This one learned the lesson well. One night a unit was drilling in the dark. A stranger passing by asked, "What unit is this?"

"None of your business," promptly replied the soldier.

And Brig. Gen. Homer O. Eaton, assistant commander of the recently-activated 40th National Guard Division, continued his lonely walk, unappraised of the unit's name, but perhaps consoled by the thought he was bossing a security-conscious outfit.

Fighting Cocks Plague Officials

Cockfighting illegal here. These Siamese death-dealing cocks, some standing nearly two feet high, with irridescent green, black and bronze plummage, may introduce poultry disease and the bloody sport here, the customs fear.

Prague (AP)—Union fishermen from all the streams in Czechoslovakia went to a school that did not consist of fish. The official news agency said about 100 of them attended an eight-day course of "political and specialist schooling" arranged by the Union of Fishermen in Prague.

TEACHERS RATE PARENTS UNDER 9-RULE INDEX

(By The Associated Press)

Are you the kind of parent teachers like?

This is the question Alice V. Keliher, a member of the faculty of the School of Education, New York university, and a recognized authority in child development, sets out to answer in a recent issue of National Parent-Teacher Magazine.

Summing up the important things teachers like about parents, she says:

Teachers "try to like all parents but they are human and like some more than other. They like to work with parents who:

1. Enjoy going places and doing things with their children.

2. Understand the ways in which they can help teachers to get their work done.

3. Know that growing up includes bumps, bruises, cuts, and getting dirty—and are able to take it.

4. Accept their children's limitations and do not force them unrealistically into things they cannot do.

5. Are able to change their minds when adequate proof is offered.

6. Try to put first things first—to learn the primary values in life and fight for these for their children.

7. Find out the good things about each child's teacher and tell her about them.

8. Do not try to control their children's choice of a lifework but give them help and encouragement to find out what is right for them, and then accept the decision.

9. Give their children abundant love and affection and express it, so that the boys and girls come to school buoyed up and supported in the certainty of acceptance by the most important persons in their lives, their parents!

There are many parents who do all these things, concludes Professor Keliher, but think of how many more can do likewise.

Chinese Deplore English Schools

Singapore—(AP)—Chinese community leaders, concered at the "migration" of Chinese students to English schools run by the government, are considering the establishment in Singapore of a multi-million dollar Chinese university, to help preserve Chinese language, culture, arts and science.

Prime mover of the scheme is millionaire Tan Lark Sye, who told the Singapore Hokkien Association a Chinese university in the colony would solve the problems of Chinese middle school boys and girls who are unable to proceed to China for a higher education.

SWEARING, BURNS FINGERS

Vancouver — (AP) — Buddhist Eng Yew burned his fingers while taking the oath at a coroner's inquest. He lit a piece of paper on which he had written his name and held it while the coroner intoned the oath. The paper burned down to his fingers before the coroner had finished. The oath, recognized by the Criminal Code of Canada, reads: "You must tell the truth or your soul shall burn in hell as this paper is burning away."

Canada Adopts New Play Center Plan

Toronto—(AP)—A small lot on a shabby east-end street is the home of Toronto's first "Playville." The front of the lot is jammed with young children on swings, slides, gym equipment, and teeter-totters. At the back, a group of older children engage in a hot game of volleyball, or basketball, badminton or deck tennis. A few adults play horseshoes on the sides.

The idea began in the United States, where in a number of cities, residents of poorer districts began pooling their spare space and setting up playgrounds and parks. Called yardvilles, there now are 400 such schemes in operation.

May Let Phone Operators Wed

Cairo (AP)—Telephone girls in Egypt may be able to marry and still keep their jobs. Authorities are now discussing such a change in present regulations.

Those in favor—including a number of the operators—point out that no such restriction is imposed on other government employes. The Egyptian government runs the telephone system.

180,000,000 To Vote In India

New Delhi (AP)—The largest number of voters in history will go to the polls next April to elect their representatives to the legislatures.

Nearly 180,000,000 Indians—almost half of the country's population—voting under adult franchise will elect their representatives to the central and state legislatures under the new constitution. The election scheduled to begin on April 10 next year, will be completed before the end of May.

ONE MENTOR LEFT

Philadelphia (AP)—Only one National Basketball Association coach, Eddie Gottlieb of the Philadelphia Warriors, has remained with the same team during the five years the league has been in operation. Arnold Auerbach of the Boston Celtics has been with the league since its inception, but is with his third team, having coached the Washington Capitols and the Tri-Cities Blackhawks before his current assignment.

Chopped raisins are nice added to a package of prepared vanilla pudding. Garnish with a maraschino cherry to catch the attention of small fry.

Hand-made dolls on display at Israel House in New York are showing interesting examples of native dress in the Holy Land. The eight-inch figures come from the doll-making village of Lydda on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. Modern garb is contrasted with ancient traditional costumes in the collection.

FAST CONCRETE GAINS EYE OF MILITARY MEN

(By The Associated Press)

New Orleans, La. — Andrew J. Higgins, Sr., New Orleans industrialist whose landing craft played an important role in World War II, has developed a new product which may revolutionize construction of roads, airstrips, supply lines, and military housing.

The new product is Thermo-Con, a quick drying, foaming concrete which is sprayed from a power hose. The material is a combination of cement, water and a secret chemical which are mixed at high agitation. Unlike other forms of concrete, sand and gravel are not needed in this product.

Developed over a period of 29 years, Thermo-Con received its first real test when Higgins built several houses in 1943. Since then it has been used in quite a few building projects including a 21 building apartment development in Atlanta, Ga.

Because it is quick drying, withstands cold and heat and is practically water proof, Higgins decided the product might be suitable for roads and airstrips—vitally important to the armed forces.

Military Investigates

Recently Higgins invited high ranking officers of all branches of the armed services to witness a demonstration of the product. Selecting a site in the marshes near his Michaud plant, Higgins personally put his product through the paces. A landing craft with the cement mixer on board was driven into the marshy bank. Laborers laid a steel mesh roadbed on the bog and slime and the staked planks along the sides. Water from the canal was pumped into the mixer and the foaming concrete was sprayed in place.

In several hours the 8 inch thick concrete strip was dry enough to support a truck loaded with plywood weighing over 22,000 pounds.

Although the military men were non-commital, they seemed impressed with the possibilities of the product and members of the Air Forces went into a huddle with Higgins to discuss the possibilities of using the material on runways for jet planes. Higgins is sure Thermo-Con is capable of doing the job because he says it isn't affected by the spillage of fuel, needs no expansion joints and can withstand temperatures up to 2,300 degrees Fahrenheit. He added that a workable airstrip could be laid with the material within 12 hours over any terrain anywhere.

Cookies Galore Swamp Firemen

Burnt Hills, N. Y. (AP)—When the women of this New York community make cookies, they make cookies.

They were asked to donate cookies for a firemen's affair recently. About 500 persons ate cookies but some were left over.

A batch of the cookies then were donated to a children's organization. But some were . . . anybody want a cookie?

Carried Crocodile In His Suitcase

Melbourne (AP)—A passenger on a crowded tram touched Jerry Randell, 37, of Darwin, on the shoulder and said: "Excuse me, but I see a crocodile coming out of your satchel." Randell pushed the crocodile's head back into the satchel, thanked the passenger, who nodded gravely and resumed reading his newspaper.

Randell is a crocodile and buffalo hunter who is spending a few weeks in Melbourne to recuperate from a bite on his left arm from a 12-foot crocodile. He explained that he was carrying a baby crocodile to Melbourne friends as an "unusual gift in return for hospitality."

Singapore—(AP)—Moslem wives in Singapore are demanding an end of child marriage in a move which may alter the practice of Islam in the Far East. They are giving full support to a bill introduced in the Singapore Legislative Council to outlaw marriages contracted between persons under sixteen. The bill, which affects Moslems most, is meeting strong opposition.

Coaldale, Alta.—(AP)—Soft spring wheat yielding 64.5 bushels to the acre was delivered to a southern Alberta elevator this fall by John Lengyel, district farmer. His wheat suffered only slight frost damage and graded No. 2 C.W.

Thailand Is Unable To Give Assistance

Bangkok (AP) — Thailand cannot partcipate in the British Commonwealth's Southeast Asia assistance program owing to other heavy financial commitments, the government announced.

It said it would have to spend $2,300,000 next year on implementation of the Point Four program besides repaying a World Bank loan of $24,500,000.

The decision was made following study by the cabinet of a report from Nai Thanat Komand, who represented Thailand at the recent London conference of Commonwealth countries.

FARM LOTTERY 567 YEARS OLD

Rome (AP)—The little farms of old San Giovanni in Persiceto, in the province of Bologna, have just changed owners again for the sixty-third time in a land rotation scheme unbroken for more than 500 years. Every nine years since 1383 A. D. the plots subdivided from an old medieval estate of 4,942 acres have changed owners by a system of lottery.

NEW FURNITURE LIKELY TO BE MADE OF PAPER

Chicago—Paper chairs and sofas may be coming your way soon, for sturdy, lower-cost furniture.

The understructure will be made of paper, in a new process developed at Armor Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology. The regular upholstery and coverings would go over it, just as they now do over frames made of wood.

It takes a skilled workman about seven hours to glue pieces of wood together to form the understructure for an over-stuffed chair or sofa.

But the paper understructure can be formed in 10 minutes, in a big saving of labor costs and of wood, said Clark E. Thorp, chairman of the chemistry and chemical engineering department. The paper structure is as strong as wood, he added.

A slurry of paper pulp is placed in a tank and kept stirred or agitated. Underneath is a screen mat, shaped to the desired form for the sofa or armchair understructure.

A vacuum pulls pieces of paper fiber down from the tank onto the screen. Thousands of he fibers become interwoven around each other on the mat, forming a solid layer a quarter to half an inch thick.

This one-piece farmework then is impregnated with resins for more strength and for a smooth finish. It is then ready to be upholstered and covered.

The fiber frame is as strong as any wood and stronger than plywood, Thorp said. He said it will take screws and staples, and will stand up under heavy blows better than wood.

Wolves Kill 7 Small Children

Latest victim was a 12-year-old boy of Purabgaon village, only five miles from Lucknow. His half-eaten body was found in the fields. In the Banthara area, 12 miles from here, half-a-dozen children have been killed within three months.

Special police guards have been posted in the affected areas and villagers have been issued spears and firearms.

Burmese Attempt To Halt Racket

Rangoon—(AP)—A Burmese M.P. asserted in Parliament that the wives of high-ranking government officials are using their husbands' positions to secure import licenses. He asked the government to make this illegal.

Nothing may be imported into this country without a license issued by the Ministry for Commerce and Supplies. Businessmen here say the present system lends itself to unscrupulous profiteering. A pseudo-importer obtains, through influence, a license for goods. Then he sells it to a genuine businessman who has not been able to get a license from the Commerce Ministry though he deals strictly in that commodity.

ISRAEL CUTS COPS

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—Two hundred of the 3,304 policement in Israel cities, towns and villages have lost their jobs. Their dismissal was attributed to "budgetary considerations."

Tiny Plane Is A Good Bomber

With The First Marine Air Wing in Korea—(AP)—No one ever expected a small Marine "grasshopper" type plane to dive-bomb an enemy artillery position, but that's what one did here recently. While directing the fire of an artillery battery, the Leatherneck pilot lost radio contact and proceeded to direct the fire by diving on the target.

Artillerymen still had trouble following the little plane's directions, so the "grasshopper" pilot decided to drop a smoke shell to mark the target. The shell, intended only as a reference point, exploded in the midst of the enemy gun position, and according to later reports by advancing infantrymen, destroyed the guns.

MICROSCOPE MEASURES WAX

New York (AP)—When will wax and water dissolve in each other? Doing research to improve floor wax products, Robert Pugh, technical director of David E. Kennedy, Inc., found the answer. The two will not dissolve, he discovered, until they are broken down into particles about three-millionths of an inch in diameter—so small that an electron microscope is needed to see the emulsified particles.

German Refugees Go To Ethiopia

Addis Ababa—(AP)—The International Refugees Organization (IRO) has opened an office in Addis Ababa to handle 171 DPs from Western Germany. About 100 of these already have arrived in the country.

Its main task is to help getting the arriving DPs properly placed and settled. Re-settling of agricultural DPs, due to transport and housing difficulties, is expected to present the greatest problem.

What to do with cold meat and leftover potatoes? Hash; of course; but hash made savory with the addition of a little finely chopped onion and enough Worcestershire sauce to give the dish zing.

Reds Use Doves For Propaganda

Berlin (AP) — "Little Peace Dove Fly Over the Roof," is the latest Communist song for kindergarten children in Soviet-occupied Eastern Germany.

At a recent student festival at Magdeburg, the children sang the new tune while 30 live doves were turned loose. "They flew eastward," reported the Communist newspaper "Volksstimme," to where the bulwark of peace, the great and mighty Soviet Union, lies."

Add a little chopped pimento to turkey or chicken croquettes for a flavor change. Or make the croquettes by a standard recipe and add the pimento to a cream sauce to be served with them.

WOMEN ANXIOUS TO SERVE, DON'T LIKE UNIFORMS

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(By The Associated Press)

There's considerable talk these days about mobilizing womanpower for the emergency.

When Korea first erupted, a high Washington source tossed up a trial balloon to the effect that such mobilization was contemplated. Before many hours had passed an even higher Washington source said no, no, no, it wasn't under consideration at the moment.

Anyway, it was apparent that some sort of furore had been kicked up at the prospect, and I would like to bet money that the furore-raisers were not female. Most women figure that if human beings must be harnessed to cope with a national crisis, it makes sense to get women between the traces as well as men. I also think it would be a good thing for women, and would make them feel a greater sense of participation in a war-or-peace-effort that is in progress.

A small newspaper item the other day reported that a single recruiting station counted 100 women eager to volunteer for WAC service during a period when some 60 men showed interest in enlisting in the army. Of course men can be drafted and women can't, but I suspect that women would be flattered to receive greetings from the President.

No Need of Draft

One of the big arguments against mobilization is that there never has been a lack of women volunteers for any of the World War II jobs that came up. They flocked nto the armed services once the doors were opened to them, and they were a very important part of the industrial force.

They would do it again, joining up in the WAC, WAVES, SPARS and Marines and climbing into their dungarees for stints on the production lines. Community work for volunteers has felt a slipping away of womanpower during this five-year period we have called peace, but at the first sound of the tocsin, women have been turning up at Red Cross headquarters, War Councils and other points and asking for reassignment.

Women were mobilized in Great Britain during the last war and it worked out very well indeed there. It enabled a hard-pressed and physically endangered nation to assign its women to spots where they were needed the most—into the land army to perform agricultural chores, to factories, to hospitals and to work in all phases of military operations except the actual fighting. This had the advantage—for Britain—of putting most women into uniforms (which is a conservation method when enough people are in them) and of leveling social barriers.

Too Much Sameness

Personally, I hope that we'll be able to have mobilization but that we won't be stuck into uniforms. I don't think most women look good in them and I've never met a woman, whether she was civilian nurse, WAC or lady policeman, who felt smart and like an individual when she had to dress exactly like everyone else around her.

It isn't so much how we look in the uniforms that bothers us, it's having to climb into the same old costume every day. I never heard a military man complain about this, but I sure have listened to plenty of feminine complaints, even about those couture-designed WAVE outfits.

This, however, is about the only objection I can find to mobilization, if the procedure is set up with some regard to woman's primary responsibility to bring up her family. I do think that if it needs women, our government should show the need by formally drafting us.

Koreans Promise To Stop Executions

Seoul, Dec. 22 (AP) — United Nations officials said today the Republic of Korea government has promised to stop mass executions of convicted persons. They said executions henceforth would be carried out individually and only in the cases of the "most heinous" crimes.

The promise was announced a day after British Brigadier Tom Brodie stopped some executions, saying he would "not have people executed on my doorstep." A British source said he intervened against the shooting of civilians after 23 had been "done in."

Brodie's Northumberland Fusiliers took over "execution hill," site of some shootings by government order, Tuesday in what was described as a move against such acts.

The U. N. commision for the unification and rehabilitation of Korea UNCURK said the government has pledged that henceforth "all executions will be carried out individually and not in groups" and that sentences for all but the "most heinous" crimes would be reduced to prison terms.

Joker Provides His Own Banquet

Mound City, Ill., (AP)—When a prankster invited 25 guests to dinner at the home of James Finley, Mound City school superintendent, Finley was equal to the situation. He instructed some of the "guests" to slip out and raid the suspect's own icebox. They gathered coffee, cakes and utensils, returned to the Finley home, and served the loot.

"The suspect knew his own silver and his wife recognized her own own cakes," Finley chuckled.

PLAN STATUE

Paris—(AP) — A young American sculptor has been picked to put a work of art in the jungles of southern Madagascar. Lawson Mooney, 28-year-old Paris art student, plans to spend six month next year on the island creating a seven-foot bronze statue of the Madonna and Child for a Jesuit Catholic church in the tiny village of Ampasimenijeva near Fianarantsoa, the capitol of Madagascar's southern province.

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP) — Rep. Brehm (R-Ohio) pleaded innocent Thursday to seven counts of receiving illegal campaign contributions. Brehm was arraigned before Federal Judge Edward A. Tamm, who set March 12 as the date for trial. The Ohio congressman was released in $1,000 bond.

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—A nine-year-old girl's plea to Santa Claus to bring her daddy back from Korea for Christmas has been answered by Secretary of the Navy Matthews.

COUPLE MARKS 50TH WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Beachtel, South Queen street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday evening. A program was presented as follows: "Memories," Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Dutterer, Jr., accompanied by Mrs. George Harman; a story of the lives and accomplishments of the couple was given in story by Mrs. E. Roy Kindig; reading "What a Wedding," Mrs. Edward Plunkert, who was the youngest guest at their wedding fifty years ago; piano solo, "Tribute to Mother," Larry Kline; piano solo, "Years Make You Younger," Mrs. J. Robert Sell; accordion selections, Miss Lucille Shoemaker; vocal solo, "Because," Fred Harmon, with Mrs. Berdie Smith, who played the music for the wedding a half century ago, as accompanist again for the same selection; reading, "Buying the Anniversary Gift," Mrs. E. Roy Kindig; "Silver Threads Among the Gold," Mr. and Mrs. Dutterer with Mrs. Harman as accompanist.

The attendants at the wedding, Mrs. Luther Slifer and Herbert Beachtel, were among the guests. The forty-seventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Slifer, which occurred on December 16, was observed also. Mr. Slifer and Mrs. Beachtel are brother and sister.

The twenty-sixth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Trostle which occurred on December 20 was likewise observed. Mrs. Trostle is a cousin of Mr. Beachtel.

Approximately 125 guests were present from Harrisonburg, Va., Jersey City, New Bloomfield, Gettysburg, Hanover, Taneytown, Westminster, Silver Run and Littlestown. Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room at the Beachtel home. The room was decorated with palms, ribbon and gold bells. A three-tier wedding cake, topped with a bride and groom made to correspond with the age of the couple, with gray hair, occupied the center of the table. The numerals "50" in gold on a large heart formed the background of the bride and groom. The ornament was made by A. Rudisill, who does such work as a hobby.

Mr. and Mrs. Beachtel received many gifts and flowers, some of them coming from cousins in Indiana, in Harrisonburg, Va., and the Woman's Bible class of Hanover. A corsage of yellow rosebuds was presented to Mrs. Beachtel by the Kline boys and a basket of fifty chrysanthemums from Mr. and Mrs. Evan Kline.

SCRIBE WRITES ABOUT POWERS TRUMAN SEEKS

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Dec. 22 (AP)—President Truman has asked Congress for authority to do a couple of very special things in this emergency.

Congress has bottled up his request and now won't make a final decision on it until after the holidays.

This will explain the problem:

There are a number of laws on the books giving a president power to do certain things but only in case of a national emergency.

In other words, they lie dormant on the books and can't be used unless the president declares such an emergency

Some Limits Remain

Last Saturday he declared such an emergency and immediately those "sleeping" laws sprang to life. He can use them now.

But there are other, fixed laws on the books, a great number of which set limits on what the president and the government can do. For instance, one law may say precisely how government contracts with a manufacturer must be handled.

Another may set limits on the kind of work a government or agency can do or, in effect, forbid reorganizing it or merging it with some other agecny.

Needs More Powers

On Tuesday President Truman told Congress that since we're in an emergency, he needs more power to get some things done faster.

So he asked Congress to pass a law giving him more power:

1. In re-juggling government contracts.

2. Re-juggling or reorganizing government agencies, and their work.

As for No. 1 — Say manufacturer Jones has a contract with the government to turn out some item, maybe a gun, at a certain price. But the cost of the materials needed for that gun have gone up.

Jones finds he'll lose a lot of money if he can't charge the government a higher price than the contract called for. Of course, he could go out of business but if he does the government doesn't get the needed gun.

A Fight On No. 2

The President wanted a law giving the government authority to adjust such a contract so the manufacturer wouldn't lose on the deal and the government wouldn't lose the gun.

The opposition in Congress has been less strong toward No. 1 than toward No. 2. When Congress returns after the holidays No. 1 may be passed. There'll probably be a fight on No. 2.

For instance, Senator Taft of Ohio, leading the Republican opposition, was one of those who balked on No. 2. He said he wanted to know more about what the government intended to do if given the powers asked in No. 2.

Taft made it clear he didn't want to give the President a blank check to reorganize the government any way he pleased.

Some Questions Raised

One question raised was this: Congress has opposed creation of a new government department, a welfare department Would the president use his powers under No. 2 to do such a thing? Friends of Mr. Truman in Congress said the President had no such desire.

This was another point: Congress passed a law a couple of years ago, unifying the Armed Forces. Would Mr. Truman use his powers under No. 2 to disrupt that unification or change it around?.

Charles E. Wilson, the newly-appointed czar of mobilization, was called upon today to go before the Senate's expenditure committee, which will have a big voice in what happens to No. 2, to explain just what the Truman administration intends to do with the power asked.

Wilson probably would be the man who'd do most with the power under the defense program in changing agencies around, shifting around the people who work for them, lumping several agencies into one, or setting up some new agency to take over some of the work now being done by a regular agency.

To make a thin white sauce for a cream soup use a tablespoon of butter or margarine and two teaspoons of corn starch to a cup of milk. Season with a half teaspoon of salt and one-eighth teaspoon of white pepper.

GETS POWER OF SPEECH ON HER 23RD BIRTHDAY

San Francisco, Dec. 22 (AP)—Georgette Umbson enjoyed "the grandest present possible" on her 23rd birthday Wednesday. . . speech until a week ago, she hadn't been able to say a word in 12 years.

On New Year's Day, 1939, Georgette—then an active fifth grade pupil in nearby Hayward, fell victim of sleeping sickness. For three weeks she slept. When she awoke, she was paralyzed.

Her eyes open, but unable to move a muscle, she lay until six months ago, when her mother and father brought her to University of California's Langley Porter clinic.

Words Tumbled Out

She gradually learned to move her arms, her legs. She learned to walk a little. But she didn't speak a word—until a week ago. Then she suddenly cried "Ouch" as a doctor worked over her muscles.

Then the words, long dammed up, came tumbling out in a torrent.

It was Mrs. Umbson, not Georgette, who was speechless that day.

"Hello, Mother," Georgette said, her eyes twinkling, "I want a plaid skirt, like the other girls wear, for Christmas."

When Mrs. Umbson could find her voice she exclaimed: "What a Christmas this is going to be—thank God!"

Koreans Use Beer Cans For Buttons

Milwaukee (AP)—For lack of raw materials, North Korean forces may have been using discarded beer cans to make uniform buttons. One such button, with a beer label clearly visible inside, was received by the Blatz Brewing company here in a letter from Capt. George S. Long, commanding officer of an American artillery battery. He said the button had been ripped off the uniform of a North Korean senior lieutenant captured at Chongju.

Do Bank Bandits Bank Bank Loot?

Why, they put it in the bank.

City police and FBI agents found part of the loot from two of this year's local bank holdups in safety deposit boxes of two other banks—one here, and one in nearby Arlington, Va.
